DRIVER INJURED

The unidentified driver of this car was injured late Sunday night when the auto traveling west on Rt. 59 spun around and struck two trees. A bystander said this and another car were dragging when the accident occurred. The other driver left the scene, he said. The mishap occurred near the Three Flags Inn. Investigation by the state police was incomplete. The driver complained of head pain and was taken to Warren General Hospital. (Photo by Clever)

Israeli and Egyptian Commandos Stage Raids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli warplanes raided Jordan Sunday and Israeli commandos claimed they destroyed an Egyptian radar station and killed 15 enemy soldiers in a sneak attack across the Gulf of Suez.

Egypt said its commando forces slipped twice across the Suez Canal and ambushed Israeli patrols, inflicting heavy losses.

Critical Situation May Develop in Viet

SAIGON (AP) — Ground fighting across South Vietnam slipped to one of its lowest levels of the year Sunday, but a critical situation appeared to be developing at the embattled American Special Forces camp at Ben Het in the central highlands.

"There will be no ground items to brief this afternoon," a spokesman for the U.S. Command said at the daily briefing for newsmen. He said he had no explanation for the sudden decrease in fighting that had flared from the Cambodian border to the demilitarized zone last week, but added: "I wouldn't draw any vast conclusions."

Ben Het has been under artillery siege by a North Vietnamese artillery regiment for the past month. The camp is nestled in the jungled mountains six miles away from the Cambodian border.

Field reports said the camp is surrounded by the North Vietnamese 28th regiment, perhaps more than 2,000 men. Attempts to push an armored column through Route 579 to open up the highway leading to Ben Het have failed because of ambushes.

Patrols venturing beyond two miles of the camp have been hit severely by well-entrenched enemy troops.

The camp is manned by south Vietnamese civilian irregulars, who are led by a team of American Special Forces advisers, and supported by an American artillery battery.

North Vietnamese gunners have been slamming an average of 40 artillery rounds into the camp each day for the past month.

The new saint is Sister Julie Billiart, daughter of a French shopkeeper, founder of the Congregation of the Sisters of Notre Dame of Namur. The Sisters of Notre Dame of Amersfoort, Netherlands, and the Sisters of Notre Dame of Coestel, Germany, also regard her as their foundress.

She was born July 12, 1751, in Cuvilly, France. While a girl she became a cripple and was unable to walk for 22 years. During her illness she harbored priests outlawed by leaders of the French revolution. She fled France and founded the Notre Dame of Namur Sisters. She died on April 8, 1816.

The Sisters of Notre Dame of Namur is the largest of the three orders and conducts schools in Belgium, Britain, France, Italy, the Congo, South Africa, the United States and Japan.

Sister Billiart was canonized in St. Peter's Basilica before tens of thousands of nuns and others in a new simplified ritual. The ceremony took only two hours, instead of the usual three, and only 50 persons walked in procession with the Pope inside St. Peter's, instead of nearly 1,000 as in past canonizations.

Apparently to disperse any doubt about how and by whom the new saint could be honored, Pope Paul said in his eulogy of Sister Billiart: "The cult or veneration of the new saint is not only universally permitted, but recommended as a way of honoring God in his works."

On May 9 the Vatican issued a new liturgical calendar dropping more than 40 saints from the approved list for veneration and reclassifying more than 90 others.

There were only four small contacts across the country Saturday, with a total of 77 enemy reported killed by U.S. and South Vietnamese forces. No U.S. casualties were reported and government casualties were described as light.

Enemy gunners also hit the battered Ben Het Special Forces camp 280 miles northeast of Saigon with about 100 rounds of artillery and mortar fire. Casualties were reported light.

Jordan said the Israelis carried out three separate air raids. In one, six Israeli jet fighters pounded the village of Elina in the Kerak area, 75 miles south of Amman, killing one civilian and wounding four others, Jordanian authorities said.

A few miles south of the village, they said, Israeli jets shot up a civilian car, injuring a passenger. Two Jordanian soldiers were reported slightly wounded in another air raid in the Ghor Alsaifi area, near where the Israelis said they carried out their retaliatory attack.

This was the second announced Israeli air raid against Jordan in less than a week's time.

Late Saturday night, Israeli commandos moved out of the occupied Sinai Desert and attacked a naval radar station at Ras Abadiyeh on Egypt's side of the Suez Canal, the Israeli army said, in retaliation for a bombardment along nearly the entire length of the waterway.

Officers in Tel Aviv said 15 Egyptians were killed, two Israeli commandos were wounded and that the radar station, a signal post, a generator and a searchlight were knocked out.

A Cairo communique denied that any radar station was attacked. It said five Egyptians were killed and seven were wounded and claimed four Israeli commandos were killed and seven wounded in the raid.

The spokesman said the victims were on a fishing trip when their boat apparently capsized. He said the sheriff's department is continuing its investigation into the case.

Georges Pompidou Names His New French Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — President Georges Pompidou named a new French Cabinet Sunday that kept an overwhelmingly Gaullist coloring despite the addition of centrists in three important ministries.

Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas hammered out the government lineup in two days of negotiating, and the list he handed to Pompidou for approval showed signs of compromise.

Michel Debre, who had been foreign minister, was transferred to the defense ministry with a minister of state title. Maurice Schumann, a once-ardent advocate of European unity who since has seemed to accept the tenets of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, was appointed foreign minister.

Valery Giscard d'Estaing, an Independent Republican who had been minister of finance from 1960 to 1966 before he was shunted aside by Pompidou, was named minister for finance and economic affairs. Former Premier Antoine Pinay, also an Independent Republican, had turned down this job Saturday in spite of what seemed to be pressing demands from Pompidou.

Former Premier Edgar Faure, a radical socialist who rallied late to the De Gaulle cause and then served as minister of agriculture and later minister of education, was dropped from the Cabinet.

Other notable deletions from the new Cabinet were Andre Malraux, Pierre Messmer, Jean-Marcel Jeanneney and Maurice Couve de Murville.

Jeanneney had been a minister of state and was responsible for preparing the project on administrative decentralization and reform of the senate that was defeated in the April 27 referendum that led to the resignation of De Gaulle.

Couve de Murville, minister of foreign affairs from De Gaulle's return in 1958 until he was promoted to Premier last July, had not been expected to remain. Neither had Malraux, a distinguished writer and art historian, who had served as minister of cultural affairs out of personal loyalty to De Gaulle.

Messmer, minister of defense since 1960, also owed his place to personal relations with De Gaulle.

The three centrists who came into the government were former Premier Rene Pleven, Jacques Duhamel and Joseph Fontanet. All have been members of the Centrist Progress and Modern Democracy (PDM) group in the National Assembly and have been in sporadic opposition to the Gaullist regime.

Pleven was appointed Minister of Justice, Duhamel Minister of Agriculture and Fontanet Minister of Labor, Employment and Population.

The enthusiasm of the government and his advisors contrasted sharply with the student and labor agitation that marked his nearly 24-hour visit to this smallest of South American countries.

Singer Judy Garland Dies in London at 47

LONDON (AP) — Judy Garland, who brought happiness to millions by singing of a dream world over the rainbow that she never seemed to find herself, died here Sunday. She was 47.

Her death was unexpected, but Scotland Yard ruled out any question that she took her own life.

"It was a simple, plain case of sudden death," a spokesman said. He said the cause of death would not be known for several days, after a postmortem.

Miss Garland, a star since childhood, had only recently settled down in London in a house with yellow doors in the Bohemian Chelsea district—an area of pretty girls and flowers.

Former New York discoteque manager Mickey Deans, who became her fifth husband March 15, in a civil ceremony that followed a Jan. 9 secret Roman Catholic service found her body in the house on Cadogan Lane and notified police.

Brian Southcombe, Miss Garland's press spokesman, said the singer and her husband made a business trip to New

Tornadoes Sweep Kansas, Cause Extensive Damage

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—A tornado and severe thunderstorms swept through this city of 40,000 late Saturday night, injuring 60 persons, knocking down utility lines and demolishing or damaging more than 25 homes.

A hangar, 15 airplanes, and four buildings at Salina Airport were also damaged, Beach Aircraft Co., which operated from the four buildings, estimated damage to its property at $1 million.

Three other Kansas communities were struck by tornado winds during the night. Gov. Robert Docking estimated overall damage in excess of $10 million. More than 100 persons were injured altogether, none seriously. The governor flew to Salina for a firsthand inspection.

About 150 National Guardsmen were on duty in Salina to help police direct traffic and prevent looting. Guardsmen also brought in heavy equipment to haul away debris. "People aren't complaining," said William Yost, a former mayor of Salina. "They just feel lucky they are alive."

The Kansas Power and Light Co., said the storms toppled one transmission tower carrying power lines between Salina and Lindsberg, Kan.

An earlier tornado Saturday night struck Kanopolis Reservoir in Ellsworth county west of Salina, injuring 17 persons. The winds destroyed numerous camper vehicles, boat docks and tents on the south and east shores of the lake. A concrete concession stand was also destroyed.

Authorities reported another twister near the White City area which flattened several structures. No injuries were reported.

High winds accompanying the storm front also caused some damage at Bavaria, Gypsum, Brookville and Smolen in the central Kansas area.

A storm accompanied by high winds struck in the Topeka area early Sunday morning and toppling trailers in a trailer court and injuring about 20 persons.

Judy

By coincidence, Miss Garland appeared on the Johnny Carson show Saturday night in a rerun of a program taped June 24, 1968.

A spokesman said Miss Garland's three children, Liza Minnelli, an entertainer, and Lorna and Joey Luft were all in the United States and had been informed of her death.

Deans, 35, left the house Sunday afternoon accompanied by four friends. "He is going to the country," a spokesman said. "We thought it was better to get him away as soon as possible."

Miss Garland's life spanned a show business career that started at age 3 and carried her to the heights of success as well as the depths of personal and professional disappointment and tragedy.

She made more than 35 films, once set a New York vaudeville record with an engagement of 19 weeks and 184 performances, cut numerous records and in recent years made frequent television appearances.

Success glittered around her throughout her life. Her movies are estimated to have earned $100 million and she had every material comfort, including a luxurious home on Sunset Boulevard in Hollywood. But at 18, she was already under psychiatric treatment and consuming pills for sleeping, tranquilizing and stimulating.

"Audiences have kept me alive," she once said. She touched most of them in her stage appearances and was greedy for applause.

"We love you Judy," audiences shouted. "I love you too," always came the response.

"I've been through a lot," she once told an audience which started booing when she turned up late for a nightclub appearance—then wound up cheering.

Through it all she remained a sad and lonely figure.

Nevertheless, in a 1962 article written for The Associated Press, Miss Garland said she felt she was "always being painted a more tragic figure than I am, and I get awfully bored with myself as a tragic figure."

At age 17, she carved a niche in Hollywood legend with her unforgettable performance as Dorothy the little girl who made friends with a lion, a scarecrow and a tin soldier on her way to meet the wizard in the "Wizard of Oz."

Along the way she also sang "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," a song that followed and haunted her the rest of her life. She never really found the pot of gold.

She slashed her throat at age 28 in a well-known suicide attempt and suffered illnesses throughout her life, never fully explained.

Her first four marriages ended in divorce.

Her career became a sad series of comebacks mixed with reports that she was washed up.

Woman Killed

SHIPPENVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A 40-year-old woman was killed when a car she was riding in veered off U.S. 322 east of here and skidded over an embankment, throwing her out of the car.

Youngsville Festivities Attract Steady Stream of Visitors

For more than six hours on Sunday, there was a steady stream of visitors through the new Youngsville Fire Department facilities, rounding out opening ceremonies which began at 2 p.m. on Saturday with a parade of fire fighting equipment, speechmaking, flag-raising, ribbon-cutting, open house hospitality and a dance.

Chester J. Henry, Youngsville native and retired Pennsylvania Railroad chief engineer, now of Wynnewood, Pa., was the keynote speaker, and observed that the new firehouse and recreation hall, built without public funds and mostly volunteer labor, was an example of the early American spirit that prompted the old-time barn raisings, quilting parties and husking bees, translated into modern terms.

Robert O. Wilder, president, National Forge Company, who remarked that his company had a "more than passing interest in this project because the Youngsville fire department is the one we depend on," said it was "one of the most impressive projects ever completed in this county, and a model example for other communities around us."

Fire Chief Leland Stitler, dedicating the facility to "the future citizens, leaders and firemen of this community," handed scissors to Gurney Ball, senior fireman with 56 years' service, for the cutting of a red ribbon which was the signal for the five doors of the truck room to open and admit the department's vehicles.

Claire Schnell, building fund treasurer, said the work was not yet finished. Blacktopping of the parking lot, landscaping and outdoor lighting remained to be done, and additional funds would be sought for these purposes, which were not included in the original fund drive proposals.

Mid East

Egypt said, too that its commando units penetrated Israeli defenses along the Suez Canal near the Great Bitter Lake twice Saturday night. An Israeli tank and two armored cars were destroyed in the first raid.

By Israel's account, the Egyptians wounded four Israeli soldiers and escaped back across the canal under a protective barrage of Egyptian artillery fire.

Meantime, there were these developments:

—Israeli political sources said Prime Minister Golda Meir would confer with President Nixon in Washington next month.

—A special envoy from President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, Hassan Sabry el Khoury, arrived in the Jordanian capital of Amman with a special message for King Hussein, informants said.

—Three Arab policemen in Israeli-occupied Gaza were sentenced to prison terms for passing military information to an Arab guerrilla organization to which they belonged.

—A young Arab girl was sentenced to life imprisonment for planting a bomb in the cafeteria of Jerusalem's Hebrew University. Twenty-nine Israeli students were wounded by the blast.

DANGEROUS CROSSING
AGUILAR, Colo. (AP)—A 175-pound mountain lion was struck and killed by a car while crossing Interstate Highway 25 in southern Colorado. The driver, John Collins of Trinidad, Colo., escaped injury.

CUTTING THE RIBBON

Gurney Ball, a fireman with the Youngsville volunteer department for 56 years, cuts the ribbon in ceremonies at the new fire hall in Youngsville Saturday. With the snip of the threads the doors on the new building's five bays opened to admit the fire company's equipment. With Ball is Youngsville chief Leland Stitler.

Two Injured Trying to Miss Deer on Road

Two drivers received minor injuries Saturday when they crashed after swerving to miss a deer standing in the highways. Russell J. Yesky, 50, RD 1, Pittsfield, was driving west on the Allegheny Springs rd. southeast of Youngsville when he was confronted by three deer in the road. He swerved to miss them and struck an embankment, state police said. The truck he was driving overturned. Yesky was treated for lacerations by a doctor.

Edmond Carl Christenson, 19, 158 Follett Run rd., ran his truck into an embankment along Rt. 62 north of Akeley to avoid a deer. He was treated at Warren General Hospital for abrasions.

State police reported two other accidents Saturday. Kenneth Louis Hancock, 25, RD 1, Box 1023, Clarendon, attempted to pass a car operated by Pamela Jill Robert, 17, 413 Jackson Run rd., as she turned left, they said. The mishap occurred on Rt. 69 north of Warren.

Robert A. Hubert, 21, Star Rt., Irvine, failed to negotiate a curve on Preston rd. north of Starbrick, and ran into a ditch, troopers said.

New Zealand

Volcano Erupts

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—New Zealand's Mount Ruapehu, a 9,175-foot high volcano, erupted shortly after midnight Sunday, spewing out water from its crater lake and hot ash which plowed through ski fields, wrecked a shop and cafeteria on the lower slopes and cut the water supply to a large tourist hotel.

As daylight came Sunday the shop was filled with congealing mud five feet deep. Walls of slush poured down in all directions from the summit and thousands of acres of the country's most popular ski area were gouged and blackened.

It was the volcano's biggest eruption in 25 years but, probably because it occurred so early, no lives were lost.

Many recalled the tragedy of 1953 when the crater lake burst through its ice wall and washed away a railway bridge. A train then plunged into a river killing 151 persons.

Astronauts Will Seek Geological Samples

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — When Apollo 11 astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. walk on the moon July 21, they will look with trained eyes at the lunar soil.

Collecting samples of the moon is one of the major goals of their mission, scheduled to start July 16. The rocks and dust they bring back could help unravel many mysteries about the moon, and perhaps provide clues to the formation of earth and the universe.

One earth, the atmosphere and oceans wear away surface features in 10 to 50 million years. Mountain-building activity turns over large areas in about the same period of time.

But on the moon, there are no oceans or atmosphere to destroy the surface and there is little, if any, mountain building. Thus, the moon may retain a record which dates back more than four billion years to the infancy of the solar system.

The two astronauts have trained long hours on lunar geology. They've each had about 150 hours classroom work and about 35 days on field trips in which they viewed volcanic and impact craters.

Dr. John Dietrich, lunar geologist at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., said that on field trips to places like Arizona "we have deliberately sailed the area with exotic rocks from another region on earth."

They have been able to pick out these rocks as foreign. They have sharp powers of observation.

Dr. Ted H. Foss, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center's lunar geology office, believes there is vulcanism on the moon "but a question in my mind is whether the vulcanism is the result of interior heating and activity or whether it resulted from the aftermath of an impact."

"As a geologist," Dietrich said, "I am tremendously excited about returning samples from the moon. Because for the first time we'll put some limits on the range of speculation."

"Apollo 11," he said, "probably won't answer any major questions because we're gathering samples from only one spot. If every rock they bring back is identical, it won't mean the moon is uniform. But if they bring back a couple of exotic rocks, we can say it is not uniform."

The old silver dollars were nine-tenths silver and one-tenth copper. The new silver dollars will consist of a copper-nickel sandwich.

CRAFTSMAN AT WORK

Many artists of all ages displayed their arts and crafts during the two-day Festival of the Arts at Warren High School on Saturday and Sunday, sponsored by the Warren Art League. The festival included student art, adult painting and sculpture, ceramics, jewelry enameling, creative stitchery, china painting, stained glass

Unemployment Claims Show Decrease

HARRISBURG — Continued claims for unemployment insurance in Pennsylvania during the week ended June 13 showed a decrease of 199 from the number filed in the preceding week and a decrease of 4,935 from the volume of the same week one year ago, Clifford L. Jones, Secretary of Labor and Industry, announced today.

The number of continued claims totaled 47,486. Most of the decrease in continued claims resulted from full work schedules in most industries prior to scheduled vacation shutdowns, Secretary Jones reported.

Initial claims (first, and reopened applications) filed for the week totaled 9,084 or 583 more than the number filed in the preceding week this year. Temporary layoffs in construction, transportation equipment and trade industries, plus seasonal layoffs in the service industry with the end of the school term were reported to be the cause of most of the increase in the initial claims volume.

Rocky

cal politicians, businessmen, teachers, youth groups and farmers.

Stressing the importance of "frank, open" discussion, the governor pulled no punches and answered all questions in his confrontations with Brazilian, Paraguayan, Uruguayan and Argentine newsmen.

Asked about the disorders in Uruguay, Rockefeller said these were the product of domestic conditions which the opposition was seeking to capitalize on through his presence.

Asked what was more difficult, being governor or a special emissary for President Nixon, Rockefeller replied, "Every thing political is difficult." But he said in the same breath that what was more important in either case was that "we can't live alone."

He also stressed that not all Latin American problems could be blamed on the United States. He made a visible effort not to be overly critical of the Alliance for Progress, a product of Democratic administrations, Rockefeller is a Republican.

He said the Alliance had failed because the U.S. Congress had never adopted it as a basic policy and that no instrument had been created within the government to implement its aims. The idea now is to maintain the same objectives, and to see that they are reached.

He emphasized here and in Brazil and Paraguay that any new Latin American policy must be so shaped that it is acceptable to Congress. It is sometimes difficult for Latin Americans to grasp, he said, that the President could not do things by decree, as in other countries.

The governor spoke accented and sometimes hazy Spanish and made a game effort at Portuguese in Brazil. This stab at communicatio in the local language and his informality appeared to have won him admirers.

Warren Air Force Men Meet In Viet

U.S. Air Force Capt. Peter H. Ostergard and Capt. David W. Anderson met recently at Bien Hoa, A.B., Vietnam.

Capt. Ostergard, a computer processor, is assigned to the comptroller's office and Capt. Anderson, a weather officer, is assigned to a unit of the Weather Air Service.

Capt. Ostergard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerould Ostergard, 104 Roy st.; and Capt. Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson, of 10 Branch st.

Anderson, a graduate of Warren Area High School, received B.S. degrees from Morris Harvey College, Charleston, W. Va., and the University of Utah. He was commissioned in 1966 upon completion of Officers Training School at Lackland AFB, Texas. His wife Norma, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Inman of St. Albans, W. Va.

Ostergard, also a graduate of Warren Area High School, received a B.S. degree from Grove City College and at that time was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the Air Force. He received his Masters Degree in computer science at Texas A & M University, College Station, Texas, and was stationed at Robins AFB, Warner Robins, Ga. His wife Marilyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman of Warner Robins, Ga.; he has two children, Michael and Gerould.

Notary Public Commissions Approved

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG —Commissions as Notaries Public have been approved by the Secretary of the Commonwealth for the following Warren County residents:

Virgil Spicer Enters Ohio Tech

Virgil E. Spicer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emerson J. Spicer, R.D. 1A, Box 160, Russell, has enrolled at Ohio Technical College, Columbus, Ohio.

Virgil graduated from Eisenhower High School in 1968 and will start classes at Ohio Tech September 29, 1969. He will study electronics engineering technology, which will prepare him for a wide variety of positions in the electronics industry.

Ohio Tech is one of only 42 in the entire country offering an accredited engineering technology program.

Friendly Chase Ends in Death

CLAIRTON, Pa. (AP) — Police said 25-year-old Richard Fedor, a guest at a wedding party, was being chased around a tavern by a friend who was trying to throw a piece of cake at him.

Police said Fedor ran out on Pennsylvania 51 Saturday night and was run over by a car driven by Mary Coulson, 20, of Bentleyville in Washington County. They said the tavern is located in Forward Township.

CLASS DONATION

One of the final group actions of the Class of 1969, Youngsville High School, was to vote on what to do with the money remaining in the class treasury. The unanimous decision was to donate it to the Cancer Fund, in memory of Thomas Antal, a member of the class who was a victim of the disease in June 1966. Nancy Clark, president of the class, presented a check for $175 to Dr. Ross E. Bryan, president elect of the Warren County Cancer Society, last week. (Photo by Rhodes)

Y'ville Girl Will Work For Red Cross in Vietnam

Barbara Crippen, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Crippen, Marsh ave., Youngsville, who graduated from Otterbein College, Ohio, on Sunday, June 15, has been advised of her acceptance by the American Red Cross for a tour of duty in Vietnam, as a recreation aide.

The French major, who toured much of Europe during her junior year, spent at the University of Strasbourg, France, graduated from Youngsville High School in 1965. She volunteered for Red Cross foreign service after attending a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored career seminar in Erie. She knew, she says, that if she was accepted, her assignment would be to either Vietnam or Korea. She will work in U.S. military canteens and clubmobiles.

"It seemed to be an opportunity to round out the experience I had in Europe, of seeing for myself the situation in other countries, and America's role," Barbara says. She thinks her knowledge of French will probably be an asset in the formerly French-controlled region. She has already begun a series of seventeen inoculations necessary for travelling to the southeast Asian country. She expects to leave for orientation in Washington D.C. early in September. Meantime, she

Dirksen's 'Warning Flag' Encounters Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minority leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois is encountering Republican opposition and is reported recasting a proposed substitute for a national commitments resolution on which the Senate resumes debate Monday.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., said he and a substantial number of other GOP senators are not satisfied with a proposal Dirksen laid before them last week. He said he may offer a different version.

The resolution itself would express the sense of the Senate that a president should make no national commitment to a foreign nation without prior affirmative action by Congress. It is in the nature of a warning flag, since it would have no binding effect on the chief executive.

Dirksen said after last week's caucus he thought he could say that President Nixon is opposed to the resolution in its present form.

But if that is true, Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations committee said in a separate interview he has no evidence to support it.

Fulbright suggested that Dirksen may have seized the opportunity to champion a Republican president without being signaled to do so. Dirksen has said the State Department urged him to do battle against the pending resolution.

Fulbright said, on the other hand, that department officials who talked to him raised the point that the Senate can't infringe on the president's powers. He said they offered no objections to Senate passage because they feel the resolution would not be binding.

Cooper said he objects to Dirksen's proposal on the ground that it spells out too many exemptions under which presidential action without consulting Congress would be acceptable.

Cooper said he is considering a substitute which would admonish the president not to dispatch troops abroad without first coming to Congress for approval.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said it may come down to that in the substitute he reported that Dirksen is revising.

"I think the public is concerned about sending our troops overseas without action by Congress," he said.

Fulbright suggested that Dirksen may have seized the opportunity to champion a Republican president without being signaled to do so. Dirksen has said the State Department urged him to do battle against the pending resolution.

Lions Induct Officers

Officers of the Warren Lions Club for 1969-70 were inducted at a dinner program Saturday.

Installed by Elmer Kellerman of DuBois were H.F. Dobson, president; Dr. R.E. Bryan, first vice president; H.F. Blick, second vice president; J.S. Gibson, third vice president; C.R. Beck, secretary; J.A. Wertz, assistant secretary; R.B. Boring, treasurer; W.T. Bunk, tail twister; and J. Hill, Lion tamer. Named directors were K. J. Nicholson and R. Marchione, one year and J. Keller and J. Zavinski, two years.

Special awards were presented to Ange Decembre, sight chairman; Charles Beck, secretary; James Keller, sauerkraut supper chairman; and John Crone, 45th anniversary chairman.

Dr. Gabriel Chimenti was toastmaster for the evening.

Telephone Workers Apply For Membership in ALA

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Federation of Telephone Workers of Pennsylvania (FTWP) has applied for membership in the Alliance for Labor Action (ALA), of the United Auto Workers and Teamsters Union.

The voting in favor of the move was 62-54. Delegates approved the action at the 29th convention here.

Most of the support for affiliation came from Central and Western Pennsylvania delegates.

President of the FTWP, I. C. Glendenning said the ALA is designed to revitalize the labor movement. He added that the ALA will act on the application next month.

The FTWP has 12,000 members. The union represents plant accounting and staff employees of the Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania.

Glendenning said Friday that the FTWP will contribute $1,200 a month under the dues structure.

The ALA is planning to strengthen collective bargaining through a strike fund which will help weaker unions during the strikes.

The FTWP has gained a reputation for militancy in the political and bargaining fields. It has waged several strikes against the Bell Co.

The ALA got off to a formal start last July when Walter Reuther, UAW president, drew up plans with Frank Fitzsimmons, acting leader of the Truckers' Union.

The formation followed withdrawal of Reuther's 1.6 million member union from the AFL-CIO. Reuther contended the federation was "vegetating."

The Teamsters Union was expelled from the AFL-CIO in 1957 on charges of corrupt activities.

Farmers Reminded Of Standards

Farmers in Warren County participating in conservation practices under the Agricultural Conservation program of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, are reminded by Charles Camp, chairman Warren County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee that practices must meet specified standards before cost-share payments can be made.

Camp says when a farmer's application for cost-sharing is approved, the ASCS office informs him of the performance requirements. "I just want to remind our farmers to be sure these requirements are being met as the conservation work progresses," says Camp. He adds that occasionally when performance is checked after completion, it is found that not all specifications have been met, whereas regulations require they must be for the farmer to receive ACP cost-shares.

Under ACP, says Camp, the federal government shares the cost of conservation practices needed to assure, in the public interest, wise use, protection and improvement of soil and water resources on the Nation's agricultural lands.

Performance for most practices, such as farm ponds, terracing, or land leveling, is checked by Soil Conservation Service technicians. For many livestock practices, such as fencing and livestock wells, performance is checked by ASCS people.

Because occasionally specifications have been misunderstood, Camp urges all producers to be sure they meet requirements. Any inquiries will be answered fully in the Warren County ASCS office at the Courthouse.

Camp urges farmers to report completion of practices as soon as possible after completion. "This helps county ASCS committees to maintain control over funds available in the county," he explains.

Air Traffic May Face New Slowdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The possibility arose Sunday that air traffic controllers would renew their work slowdown Monday in reaction to a Federal Aviation Administration investigation of the last one.

The Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization protested the investigation in a strongly worded telegram to federal officials. And a union spokesman said:

"If the harassment resumes tomorrow, the guys just aren't going to stand for it."

The director of the FAA's Air Traffic Service, William J. Flermer, confirmed that FAA investigators began Friday and Saturday interviewing the 250-300 controllers who called in sick last week. The goal, he said, is "to find out the nature of the so-called spontaneous illness." He said the inquiry will be resumed Monday.

The air controllers are forbidden by law to strike but last Thursday many at various cities reported they were ill. Those working insisted on going strictly by the safety rules. The results were hundreds of canceled flights while delays of one to three hours was the rule across the country. Similar tactics caused a major tieup last July.

Dunbar Resident Killed in Collision

GRANTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — A Pennsylvania resident was killed in a two-car collision Saturday night on state Rte. 40 west of here. State police identified the victim as Ettore Lacaffine Jr., 45, of Dunbar, Pa.

Police said he died after the car he was driving struck another car while passing on a hill. The two occupants of the other vehicle were treated and released at a Conellsville, Pa., hospital.

Dr. Gabriel Chimenti was toastmaster for the evening.

Reform Jews May Open All-Day Hebrew Schools

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — In a period when many Roman Catholic parochial schools are having financial troubles, Reform Jews might open all-day Hebrew schools of their own for the first time.

The Central Conference of American Rabbis, whose 1,000 members serve one million Reform Jews in 700 synagogues, has agreed to try out experimental day schools if the congregations go along.

The idea won acceptance at the end of the annual conference convention here Friday. The Union of American Hebrew Congregations UAHC, which is the laity's equivalent of the rabbinical body, would have to give its own endorsement when it meets in Miami Beach next October.

"The inadequate public school system and our own inferior religious education have taught us that we are not producing committed Jews," said Rabbi Martin Rosenberg of Sands Point, N.Y.

"Reform Jewish leaders have come to the sober realization that unless fulltime Jewish education is introduced in the form of private day schools, the Reform movement will fail to regenerate itself."

The Orthodox, the most strictly observing of Jews, have long dominated in total Hebrew education. They run 300 full-time schools attended by 60,000 children.

Conservative Judaism operates a system of 26 schools. Reform Judaism, known for liberal mindedness and adaptability, teaches its heritage to children two hours a week at synagogue classes held Saturdays or Sundays. A few temples have classes two afternoons a week as well.

Reform Jews long have been vigorous upholders of church-state separation, and the conference's new president said that attitude would be unchanged despite the school plan.

"I remain firmly opposed to the use of government funds, direct or indirect, for religious sponsored schools," Rabbi Roland B. Gittelsohn, 59, of Boston's Temple Israel said in an interview.

He was elected conference president last Thursday.

Teaching Local History

Title III, the program currently being conducted in area schools, is a commendable undertaking. There can be no question that the broadening of educational efforts beyond the once-accepted concept of "readin', writin' and 'rithmetic" will benefit the student immeasurably, and in carrying the search for better methods of teaching and extending the subjects taught our local educators seem to be headed in the right direction.

The whole program seems to be well oriented to the area in which it is being conducted. And there can be little doubt that the subjects selected for coverage are those that will be highly beneficial to area students.

However, one of these subjects deserves special mention. That subject is local history.

In general, local history is the basis of patriotism. While winding streams, towering mountains, and pastoral surroundings contribute to one's love for his homeland, it is a knowledge of the past that ties the

Trouble in Paradise

The closest the Supreme Court ever gets to Harrisburg, except for a couple fortnights a year, is Lancaster where the justices foregathered last week with other lesser members of the judicial brotherhood.

As far as the Supreme Court is concerned, the big action takes place in Philadelphia, near the Wynnewood tennis courts where the Chief Justice has scored numerous athletic victories, and that locality will remain home base as long as Chief Justice John C. Bell, 76, remains head of the State's highest court.

Haratine

But the justices traveled to Lancaster this week for a meeting of something called the Trial Judges Association, and there was trouble in Paradise. Trouble, of all places, between two arch conservatives of Pennsylvania's majestic high bench.

The trouble all started on Monday. Up from Philadelphia, Chief Justice Bell promptly went to work on the U. S. Supreme Court.

He charged the highest court with rewriting the U. S. Constitution and added: "A majority of that court has forgotten that the liberty of the individual is, and always must be, subordinate to the protection and safety of the law abiding public." Above and beyond that, Mr. Bell complained.

SYLVIA PORTER

Census—A Threat to Privacy?

"The upcoming 1970 census forms will contain more than 120 questions," a recent editorial in a Southern newspaper warned erroneously. "If you fail to tell who uses your bathroom you can be imprisoned," the editorial continued, also falsely.

"Your answers," warned a terrifying (and utterly inaccurate) recorded telephone message publicized in 200 U. S. cities a few weeks ago, "had better jibe with what you put on your tax return or you will be subject to criminal prosecution . . . by the Internal Revenue Service for possible income tax evasion."

"Shall we become a nation," asked the respected Wall Street Journal a while ago, "where the government can jail anyone who declines to discuss the condition of his plumbing?"

This type of scare talk is, at this moment, threatening to hamstring the 1970 Census—a nosecount projected to cost the U. S. taxpayer roughly $200 million. A startling 140 U. S. representatives are now backing and publicizing a variety of bills which would strictly limit the number and type of Census question and even place the Census on a largely voluntary basis.

"If they succeed," remarked Dr. Conrad Tauber, the Census Bureau's top demographer and Census planner, in an interview, "the Census will be delayed by at least a year, the $200 million expenditure will be largely wasted, and most of the statistical results will be worth next to nothing."

Yet, the anti-Census movement actually COULD succeed. If it did, it would be an enormous blow to government agencies apportioning tens of millions of taxpayer dollars each year to the nation's needs, to corporations staking more billions of stockholders dollars on expansion and marketing strategies, to cities, states and town plotting future growth patterns and rates, to school systems, road builders, airport planners, civil rights organizations, to manpower development planners, on and on.

Let me make it abundantly clear that I detest "Big Brother" and I am as sensitive to the threat of an invasion of my precious privacy as any of you.

But let's get the record straight.

The 1970 Census will NOT ask with whom you share a shower, a bathroom or a kitchen, but rather WHETHER your kitchen and bathroom facilities are used by other families. Sharing of such facilities is a crucially important indicator of overcrowding.

The Census Bureau is prohibited by law from disclosing specific answers by any individual to anybody—including Internal Revenue Service, Social Security or any other agency.

The 1970 Census will NOT be substantially longer than previous Censuses. Out of every five households, four will be asked to answer only a brief, 23-question form; one in seven households will be asked to answer an additional 43 questions; one in 20 households will get slightly longer questionnaires. The absolute maximum number of questions will be 86—hardly an unconscionable burden.

Only nine new questions are planned for 1970. Technically, the penalty for failing to answer Census questions is 60 days in jail and $100 fine—but only two individuals have ever been penalized and they received fines only.

By contrast, in 1880, there were a total of 470 questions and most families had to answer 120 against 23 on the 1970 Census. And in 1880 and 1890, individuals were asked such questions as whether they often had to be restrained by a straight-jacket; the head size of any "idiot" in the family; whether the respondent was "habitually intemperate," a "tramp," "syphilitic," or a "habitual drunkard." Now that was nosy!

MASON DENISON

The Delicate Area

HARRISBURG — One of the more intriguing reforms the Democratic leadership of the House of Representatives plans to put into effect (they can do it inasmuch as they control the House) is requiring financial disclosure by lawmakers — obviously a delicate and touchy area if there ever was one!

This recommendation was greatly overlooked in coverage of the modernization program proposed by the Speaker of the House Herbert Fineman recently as news reports concentrated on his call for a raise in pay for legislators.

The two most important reform measures proposed in the report of the "Commission for Legislative Modernization" were contained in Recommendations 9 and 10.

Recommendation 9 called for the establishment of a permanent Ethics Committee. Recommendation 10 proposed a stringent Lobbyist Regulation Act — and the disclosure by legislators of "relevant financial or occupational interests."

The Ethics Committee has already been established on a permanent basis by the House of Representatives under Representative Robert C. Wise, Williamsport, and a Lobbyist Regulation measure requiring full financial disclosure by the "legislative engineers" has already passed the House.

This leaves only the matter of a "financial disclosure" bill for the Legislature to be acted upon.

Speaker Fineman agreed that the legislation should be enacted, effective in 1971, when a new General Assembly will take office and has ordered the Ethics Committee to recommend appropriate legislation.

The Commission for Legislative Modernization, composed of 12 men who were not members of the General Assembly, pointed out in its report how important these measures are.

The report, entitled "Toward Tomorrow's Legislature," said: "The Commission's initial question was whether or not it should concern itself with the general subject of ethical conduct in view of the fact that it has been the subject of a recent study and action by the legislature."

"It is the conclusion of the Commission that this should be one of the most important areas of consideration because it is believed that there remains room for definite improvement in this area. Such improvement can be the indispensable element in the enhancement of the prestige, confidence and respect in which the General Assembly is held by the public."

It should be remembered that Mr. Fineman made an increase in salaries for the members of the General Assembly contingent upon passage of such measures as the financial disclosure recommendation.

He also made the increase contingent upon another factor, one that goes even beyond the recommendations of the Modernization Commission. As its first matter of business, the Commission took up the subject of whether being a member of the Legislature should be a full-time job.

Recommendation 1 said: "The scheduling of legislative activities be such as to permit the members to give attention to their respective outside occupations, but that every legislator be expected to give primary attention and devotion to his legislative responsibilities."

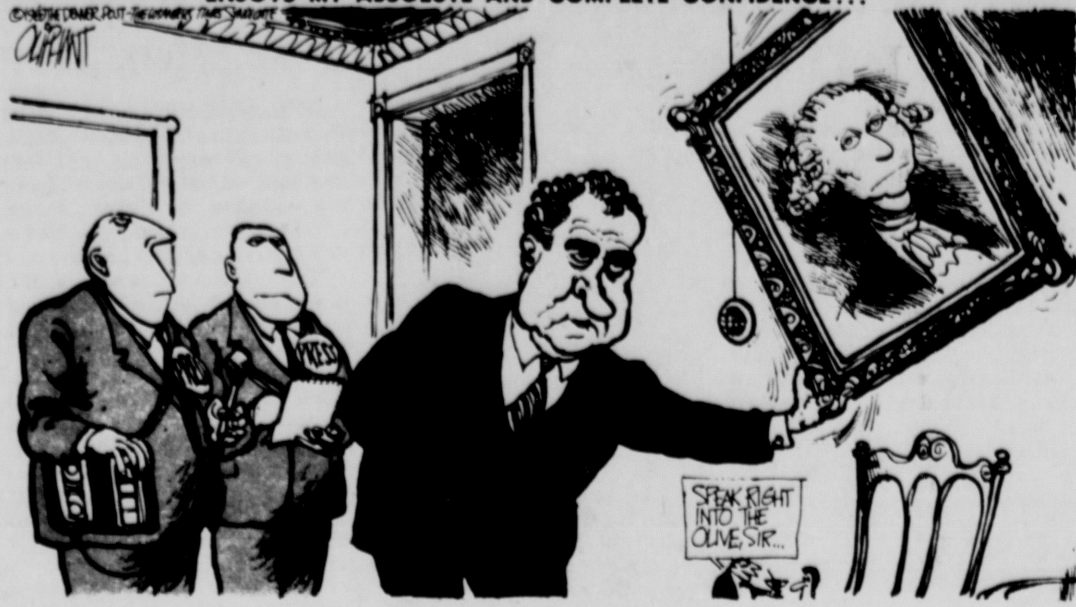

Before recommending a salary increase from $7,200 to $12,000 per year to go along with a decrease in expense allowances from $4,800 to $3,000, Mr. Fineman said:

"We agree that legislative duties ought to have the first claim on a member's time. No member should assume private responsibilities unless they are compatible with the conscientious discharge of his legislative duties. While being a member of the General Assembly is not yet a full-time job, events are moving rapidly in that direction; no person should consider running for the legislature today who is not prepared to spend an average 30-40 hours per week throughout the year on legislative work, both in Harrisburg and in his home district."

"If legislative salaries are increased, members should plan to spend an even greater share of their time on legislative duties."

Earl Warren a Great American

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to one of his youngest grandsons, Dan Tyler Abell.)

Washington, D. C. June 20, 1969

Dear Danny:

A very great man retires from the Supreme Court today. He is also a very much criticized man. But when you grow older you will find that the greater a man is, the more he is criticized. George Washington, for instance, was probably more severely criticized by the newspapers during his last term than any President in history.

You are now in the fourth grade. And by the time you are in college Earl Warren will be regarded as a man who molded America as much as any of our great Presidents.

Though he handed down hundreds of important decisions, I think the two which molded America most were, first, the school desegregation decision; and, second, the one-man, one-vote decision which gave a break to our long neglected cities.

In your history book you will learn how for 100 years Negroes had not been getting a fair break in this country. This is why the school desegregation decision is so important. For if Negroes can get the same education as white men, eventually they can be able to take their place economically alongside of white men. Of course, we're now in the throes of much turbulent readjustment, but turbulence always comes with readjustment, and we'll get over this in time.

The other problem which Chief Justice Warren tried to resolve grew out of the fact that this country has become largely urban, whereas it used to be rural. As people moved to the big cities and the suburbs they did not have equal rights in the state legislatures, which had long been stacked in favor of rural areas. So the Chief Justice, in a very bold and sweeping opinion, readjusted the balance of voting strength in this country.

He did it just in time, for the big cities had already started to boil over from lack of improvements, lack of money, and neglect.

Another great quality of Earl Warren's was that he didn't duck tough issues. One of the last decisions he handed down was one which he could have ducked, namely that of Adam Clayton Powell. Powell is a Negro Congressman who had misbehaved rather flagrantly and who was barred from taking his seat in Congress when elected by his own people.

The Chief Justice knew it would infuriate Congress if he told them they were wrong in refusing to seat Powell. There is nothing Congressmen hate more than being told they are wrong — especially a white Congress regarding a Negro.

Nevertheless, the Constitution was quite clear

The members of The Commission—the Mafia bosses of all the bosses—have loose tongues and tight pants. They won't talk to each other unless they can hide among the canned sardines in the back of a restaurant. And that's where the F.B.I. has the micro- phone.

They might as well be on radio. They are always busy "straightening" someone out, and some-times they get the guy so straight he never moves again. When they are not doing this, they are talking in riddles about "respect." This is something which a cheap "torpedo" must accord to

TO A PASSER-BY ON PROSPECT STREET:

I hope you enjoy the pretty pink geranium in the wooden, brass-bound pot which you took from my porch ledge the other night. There are several buds on it and if you will keep it watered regularly it should be beautiful all summer long.

Thank you for leaving the matching one for me to enjoy. Have you thought that this world will indeed be an ugly place if people ever give up trying to beautify their surroundings because they can not trust other people to leave them unharmed?

If you should change your mind about keeping it, it would make me very happy to have it back.

that only the people, not the Congress, have the right to decide whom they will send to Washington.

Another quality about Warren is that he has refused to sit in isolated legal splendor, but has kept in touch with the world.

He has traveled to Bolivia, the most out-of-the-way country of South America; to Ecuador, which is right on top of the Equator; and to Colombia; also to the Communist countries of Bulgaria, Romania, Yugoslavia and Russia.

I once asked him whether it was a good idea to have it known that he had visited these countries. He replied that these countries were very important in regard to peace and he wanted to know more about them. "I am not going to sit in isolation just because I am on the Supreme Court," he said.

He even traveled with me through Montenegro to the edge of the Albanian border, where, after World War I, I worked with a Quaker reconstruction unit. It was very hard traveling over very high mountains, and we had to get up about 5 o'clock every morning. But not once did he complain.

The Chief Justice loves to swim. He stays in the water like an old sea dog — much longer than your grandfather — in the Black Sea off the Turkish coast, in the Aegean Sea off Greece, and in the Adriatic off Yugoslavia. Once President Tito of Yugoslavia warned him to be careful about the sharks, but he kept on swimming just the same.

And despite all the dull, dry legal papers he has had to read during his 16 years on the Court, the Chief always kept in touch with the sports world. "I read the sports pages first," he once told me, "because they record men's achievements. Then I look at the first page because it records men's failures."

Once after dinner on the mid-Pacific island of Maui, your grandmother asked Mr. Warren about a certain crucial period of his life when he was running for Vice-President in 1948 with Gov. Tom Dewey of New York.

"If you had won and been elected Vice-President," she asked, "would you be the same Earl Warren you are today?"

"No, I don't suppose I would," he replied. "I expect I would have been just another member of the Establishment."

That remark illustrates how history is made. If Gov. Dewey had not lost that election to President Truman — and it was a very close election, influenced by such small things as a railroad engineer who backed his train at the wrong time — we would not have had a very strong man molding our history for the last 16 years. As he retires today the critics will be delighted. But I predict the history books when you are in college will describe Earl Warren as one of the truly great men of our day.

Have a good time in Maine and do more swimming than studying. You'll get plenty of that next fall.

Love,
Your Grandfather

The Endless Summer

WASHINGTON — President Nixon received a surf board from his daughters for Father's Day. It was reported in the newspapers that the gift was a complete surprise to the President and that he still was not sure what he would do with it.

White House sources said that President Nixon had no intention of surfing at this time, but they did not rule out the chance that he might use the surf board at a future time.

One White House spokesman said, "When it comes to surfing, the President wants to keep all his options open. As a first step, President Nixon has appointed a committee of distinguished citizens to report to him on the advisability of using the surf board and what costs would be involved."

Herb Klein, President Nixon's communications chief, when asked where the President would stand on the surf board, said "Probably in the middle — neither to the left nor to the right."

Someone pointed out the surf board could get the President in deep water with the country. Klein denied this: "Contrary to certain newspaper columnists, the President will not go against the tide. He also has no intention of peaking too early."

Reporters asked Klein if it were true that the President might appoint Otto Otepka, the former State Department official, to the Surf Board. Klein angrily denied it and said Otepka was nominated to the Subversive Activities Control Board. He also denied a reporter's charge that the Subversive Activities Control Board has as much work to do as a Surf Board.

Congress was split on the gift. Democratic opponents of the President's antiballistic missile system said, "The President's been over his head since he's been in the White House. I don't imagine a surf board would make any difference."

But Republican leaders said they were pleased with the President's stand, and they expected him to ride out the criticism.

Vice President Spiro Agnew was surprised to hear that President Nixon had a surf board. When told that the President might have him try out the board first, the Vice President said, "He told me when I took this job I'd either sink or swim, but I didn't know the test would come this early."

Before using the surf board, Washington sources hinted that President Nixon would go on television and explain to the American people why he had decided on surfing. He would make it perfectly clear that as President of the United States the decision to use or not use the surf board was his alone. He would give 20 reasons why he shouldn't use the surf board and 20 reasons why he should use it. He would then say that he had weighed the risks and had come to a decision that to surf would be dangerous, but not to surf would be worse.

When the gift was announced in the newspapers, an Antisurfers Committee was formed by Arthur Schlesinger, John Kenneth Galbraith and Richard Goodwin to protest the Administration's surfing policies.

Backed by scientists at MIT, Stanford and Harvard, the Antisurfers Committee took out full-page advertisements in leading newspapers stating that the President's Surf Board would not work.

The Administration immediately produced its own scientific experts who said that the President's surfing not only was feasible, but that it was absolutely necessary for the security of the country.

In the meantime, White House Press Secretary Ron Ziegler announced that the President was leaving for Key West next weekend with Bebe Rebozo to find the "perfect wave."

General Assembly Takes Up Stop-Gap Appropriations

HARRISBURG (AP) — The General Assembly returns Monday to take up consideration of stop-gap appropriations to operate state government, pending resolution over Gov. Shafer's $2.55 billion budget and half-billion dollar tax program.

There are Republican-sponsored stop-gap measures on the floor of the Senate that would keep the Commonwealth in business for three months. In the House, majority Democrats have proposed legislation to provide a month's financial needs.

With the new fiscal year a little more than a week away, the first requirement of the politically divided legislature is a decision on which package of limited spending bills will be sent to the governor for his signature.

Although the governor is expected to sign, he is not happy over the necessity of financing the state on a month-by-month basis because of the legislature's failure to approve a budget for fiscal 1969-70.

Shafer was extremely critical of the lawmakers at his news conference Thursday, accusing them of "dilly-dallying." His sharp comments may prompt angry reaction in floor speeches this week.

House Chairman Favors Dept. of Transportation

HARRISBURG (AP) — The chairman of the House Transportation Committee said Sunday he strongly favored a Senate-passed bill to create a Department of Transportation in state government.

Rep. Joseph F. Bonetto, D-Allegheny, added, however, that he would not push for immediate House consideration of the measure, but would hold public hearings.

"We want to hold public hearings, probably during the month of July, in order to give opponents their say," Bonetto said. "It's a matter of fairness."

The Senate approved the Shafer administration proposal last week on a vote of 33-10. Nine Republicans and one Democrat cast the negative votes.

Under the legislation, the Department of Highways would form the base of the new Transportation Department, which also would assume other responsibilities.

The new department, for example, would take the Bureau of Motor Vehicles and Traffic Safety from Revenue and Administration mass transit programs now under Community Affairs.

"Coordination," said Bonetto,

"The whole key to this thing is coordination. This is one of the most important pieces of legislation before the General Assembly this year."

Senate opponents of the bill expressed concern that the department would be so large that, as one senator phrased it, "it will be difficult to control."

Bonetto said that although he favored the legislation, he would suggest several amendments, none of which he said would alter the basic intent of the proposal.

The Transportation Department would be headed by a cabinet-level secretary and five deputies. Highways Secretary Robert G. Bartlett is considered the top contender to head the department.

The five deputies would be in charge of administration, highways, safety, planning, and local and area transportation, under the proposed bill.

Since the federal government formed a Transportation Department in 1966, seven states have followed suit — California, Delaware, Florida, Hawaii, New Jersey, New York and Wisconsin.

Hospital Workers Strike Getting Hard to Control

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Until last week a three-month strike by non-professional Negro hospital workers had been essentially nonviolent, but strike leaders now say a "fringe element" is becoming harder to control.

In the early phases of the strike, marches conducted with out a parade permit were swift and easily turned back by police.

But Friday night lawmen clashed with strikers and their supporters in the first significant violent confrontation of the strike.

The Rev. Andrew Young, executive vice president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, explained the incident this way:

"What you have here is people who have never been committed to nonviolence running out of patience. They are short of money, it is hot, most have family responsibilities and they see no relief in sight."

"When there is a situation in which the leadership is arrested

— there is no leadership and the crowd becomes a mob," he said.

He said the leadership of the strike so far had been able to deal with the more militant Negroes who have attached themselves to the movement.

"I don't think nonviolence is at an end here, but we do have a fringe element committed to violence," Young said.

Six policemen and one fireman received minor injuries Friday night in the incident. The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy and three others were arrested and charged with inciting the crowd to riot.

Another confrontation involving violence occurred as Abernathy was being arraigned in a magistrate's office about noon Saturday.

Eight hours later — shortly before 9 p.m. — a curfew went into effect — city police, South Carolina Highway Patrolmen and National Guardsmen had a tense, 45-minute showdown with some 150 demonstrators.

However, Police Chief John Conroy said there have been no changes in police tactics that could have precipitated the violence.

Number of uniformed strikers staged a "pray-in" Sunday at several predominantly white Charleston churches.

Abernathy and the three others — his aide Hosea Williams and two Charleston Negroes — remained in jail, unable to post $50,000 bond each. And an SCLC spokesman said the civil rights group may not be able to raise the needed money to get them out and probably will have to go to court in an effort to get the bond reduced.

Barry Epstein Is Convention Speaker

Barry Epstein, executive vice president of the Warren County Chamber of Commerce was among the speakers and panelists at the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce Executives' 55th annual convention in Ligonier last week. Improvement of professional standards and procedures was the principal concern of the three day conference.

James H. Davis, Sharon, was elected president of the organization for the year. General chairman of the convention was Joseph C. Duval, executive director of the Ligonier Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Chief administrative officers of more than 50 Chambers in the state attended the convention.

Accidentally Shoots And Kills Brother

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Police said a young man accidentally shot and killed his older brother while they were taking target practice with rifles in a field.

Police said Robert T. Murray, 27, of Greensburg was shot in the head by his 16-year-old brother, Edward. They said Edward took a shot at a bird but hit Robert instead. They said he died Sunday morning in a Pittsburgh hospital.

Powell Refuses To Support Procaccino

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell said Sunday he won't support fellow Democrat Mario A. Procaccino for mayor.

The Harlem congressman indicated he might support incumbent John V. Lindsay, who lost the Republican primary but is on the November ballot as a Liberal.

Lindsay lost the GOP nomination to conservative State Sen. John J. Marchi.

"Of all three candidates, I think Lindsay is the only one who can pour oil on the troubled waters of this town," Powell said at a news conference.

Asked whether he would support Procaccino, whose main campaign theme was "safety in the streets," Powell replied: "I wouldn't like to say yes or no, but I will say no."

He said he will discuss the matter with fellow Democratic leaders this week. There have been reports that a liberal Democrat might run as an Independent in November. Procaccino won a five-man primary with about a third of the vote.

Powell denied published reports that he had agreed to drop a demand for $55,000 in back pay, if Congress restores the 22 years of seniority it stripped from him when it barred him from taking his seat in 1967.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that Congress did not have the right to exclude him.

"No deals have been envisioned," Powell said. "I haven't even thought of it."

Powell said the questions of backpay and seniority were before lower courts and, "I couldn't make a deal even if I wanted to."

IT'S YOUR MONEY

The American Assn. of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers' Assn. have some sound financial planning advice for younger persons, and others, too, for retirement years.

"While it is true," they acknowledge, "that Social Security benefits have improved, now is the time for you to plan to make your 'golden' years truly golden, if you have not already set up a sound savings, life insurance or investment program."

"Remember, savings institutions, life insurance companies and other types of investment firms are ready to help you work out a personalized program for yourself that will add substantially to the money you will receive from Social Security — in your later years when you need it most."

It is interesting to note, with the advice of the AARP and NRTA in mind, that the number of retirement plans submitted for approval to the Internal Revenue Service "climbed to new heights in 1967," according to a recent Social Security Administration publication.

About 11,300 pension plans and 9,200 profit-sharing plans were approved that year, "a record number for any year," the bulletin reports.

"It is estimated that with this surge in plan approvals the net (after adjustments for terminated plans) number of Internal Revenue Service-qualified corporate plans at the end of 1967 was more than 150,000."

Of these 150,000, the publication says, 58 per cent were pension plans and 42 per cent profit-sharing plans. Also, in 1967, there was a spurt of approvals of pension plans for the self-employed and more than 29,400 were approved. As a result, the number of plans qualified under the Self-Employment Individual Tax Retirement Act doubled in 1967 and reached 55,700, with three-fifths of them pension plans and two-fifths profit-sharing plans. As estimated 60,000 persons — the self-employed and their employees — were covered at the end of 1967 — "twice the number a year earlier."

According to the Institute of Life Insurance, the publication also reports there were 29,720 insured plans for the self-employed, covering 53,000 persons in 1967.

Changes in health and welfare benefits affected seven out of 10 of the 4.4 million production workers involved in 1967 bargaining settlements over wage rates. Three-fifths of the workers were represented in negotiations improving pension plans.

Leading the 1967 settlements, says the Social Security bulletin, were the Auto Workers' benefits in the automobile and farm equipment industries, which increased the level of normal retirement benefits. Pension plan improvements to be fully effective this year (1969) feature introduction of pension benefits that vary by hourly rate of pay. For those with hourly rates of $3.54, the monthly benefit will be $6 for each year of service. The monthly benefit provides $5.50 for each year of service for workers with hourly rates less than $3.41; and $5.75 for those with hourly rates from $3.41 to $3.54. Previously, the monthly benefit for each year of service had been $4.25, regardless of earnings.

The Rubber Workers' settlements with companies in the rubber industry included improvements in all aspects of employee-benefit plans; and pension benefits were increased from $3.25 to $5.50 for each year of credited service.

Another key settlement raised normal benefits for meat-cutters in the meat-packing industry from $3.25 to $5 a month for each year of service and provided for retirement with full benefits at age 62, with 10 years of service.

The AFL-CIO American Bakery and Confectionery Workers won increased employer-contributions to their pension fund to finance higher normal retirement benefits. Another "significant liberalization" raised the monthly benefit from $100 to $115 for more than 70,000 retired miners receiving benefits from the United Mine Workers of America Welfare and Retirement Fund. Widows' and survivors' benefits were also improved.

Several local unions reached agreement on a portable pension program for retail clerks employed in Southern California stores," the bulletin adds. "The plan would permit workers with five years of continuous service under any one of the three plans involved (and at least 10 years of service in all plans) to transfer pension credits as they change jobs within coverage of the three funds. Agreements of this nature are becoming more common in multiemployer plans."

Army Continues to Plan For Disposal of Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James J. Howard accused the Army Sunday of bad faith in continuing to plan for disposal of 27,000 tons of poison gas in the Atlantic Ocean.

The Army has agreed to hold up shipment of the gas — originally planned for early this month — until the National Academy of Sciences could conduct a review, scheduled for completion in mid-July.

Howard, a New Jersey Democrat, said the Army has informed him it is now redrawing train routes for the gas to avoid large cities.

"Now, if the Department of the Army was really sincere in abiding by the recommendations of the National Academy of Sciences it would await the outcome of that report before spending taxpayers' money working on a project that might never be needed," said Howard in a statement.

A letter to Howard from Brig. Gen. James A. Hebbeler, Army director of chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear operations, said the exact route through New Jersey for trains carrying the gas hasn't been selected.

"Military Traffic Management and Terminal Service is continuing to work with the railroad to select the safest route that will bypass large cities, such as Elizabeth," said Hebbeler's letter.

The gas was scheduled to be loaded onto Liberty ships at Earle, N.J., in Howard's district, then towed 125 miles out to sea.

The Department of Transportation originally granted the Army special permission to carry the gas in untested tanks, then revoked the permits for review.

Howard said he interprets letters from the Transportation Department to mean final approval of the train movement is practically a foregone conclusion.

Howard said he's particularly concerned about a letter from Mac E. Rogers, director of the department's Bureau of Railroad Safety in the Federal Railroad Administration.

"The rail routing of these movements to Earle, N.J., are presently under evaluation and when final approval is given to the Department of Defense, you will be advised," wrote Rogers.

"Both of these letters leave little doubt as to the intentions of those who want to ship this gas and I plan to do everything in my power to keep the public spotlight on every action that is taken," said Howard.

Hungarian Refugee Named Pa. Outstanding Teen-ager

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three years ago Gabor Garai was an unknown Hungarian schoolboy applying for political asylum in America. Today he is the 1969 Outstanding Teen-ager of Pennsylvania.

The 17-year-old refugee is among the nation's 50 finalists for the coveted title of Outstanding Teen-ager of America for 1969. President Nixon will make the $1,000 scholarship award later this summer.

Garai couldn't speak a word of English when he stayed behind on a three month's visitors visa in 1966.

This fall he goes on a scholarship to Harvard. He has already won and turned down other scholarships to Yale, Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania. At George Washington High here he scored 1410 in his college board exams, was class president and head of the student association.

The boy who plans a career in law or politics says he owes his success to opportunities available in America.

"When I lived in Budapest people used to tell me that no one could get anywhere in America without money and connections."

Garai's mother, Marietta, works in a dress manufacturing plant.

His step father, Paul Muller, is a car salesman in Philadelphia. They both fled Hungary during the 1956 uprising.

Young Garai says his mother enticed him to visit America. Within weeks "I had fallen in love with it," he says.

He was granted political asylum three months later and this January became an American citizen.

He says the Hungarians have taken it out on his father, an art critic journalist, Thomas, who works on a weekly paper, Hetfoi Hírek. The elder Garai, divorced from his wife, used to travel extensively in western Europe. His son says travel restrictions were clamped on him immediately after his son defected.

Garai plans a career in law or politics.

REFLECTIONS

By Betty Rice

If you want a hearty, tantalizingly appetizing dish—indoors or out—when unexpected company arrives, here's a marvelous recipe (so we're told) from the Stillmeadow Cook Book by Gladys Taber, well-known columnist, using the ever versatile hamburger as a base. Amounts vary, she notes, depending on how many hungry people have descended on you.

Pat hamburger into a round cake tin (use a deep pan if using regular hamburger to which fat has been added). Spread with prepared mustard, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Lay thin slices of onion over, covering the meat well. Then lay slices of tomatoes over the onion and don't spare the horses on the tomatoes. Lay sliced green pepper over the tomatoes. Put another layer of meat on top for a lid and top that with several slices of tomato. Bake at 350 degrees until the meat is done, about half an hour depending how thick the layers are. The onion and tomato will cook into the meat and the juices will blend. Stillmeadow Hamburg Bake is actually a great hurry-up dish any time of year. (Sorry, Louie, if this sounds good to you).

Here's a recipe for BEAN SOUP (Fasolatha) taken from the collection of Greek recipes "From Our Kitchens." 1 lb. northern beans; 1 small can tomatoes; 1 cup chopped celery; ½ cup olive oil; 2 chopped onions, salt and pepper to taste. Soak beans overnight. Rinse beans and cover generously with water. Cover pot and allow to simmer slowly for about two hours. Add hot water while cooking to keep beans covered. Add other ingredients and cook until done. Keep pot covered during entire cooking time.

Here is Mrs. D. E. Conaway's recipe for STRAWBERRY PIE: Cream a 3 ounce package of creamed cheese with 3 tbs. milk until smooth. Spread in bottom of baked pie shell. Press ½ quart strawberries into cream cheese. Crush remaining half of berries with 1 cup sugar and 3 tbs. cornstarch. Cook until thick, add 2 tbs. butter. Cool and spread over the cream cheese. Chill.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a sergeant home on leave and am now reading the Landers column which my family has cut out and saved for me. I just this minute came across the letter from a woman whose husband spanked their three-year-old son whenever he cried because he believed tears were a sign of unmanliness.

I had the privilege of serving with a Green Beret. He was about 25, over six feet tall, handsome, rugged, and he had made dozens of parachute jumps. I saw him perform many acts of bravery which he considered part of his job. This man was generous and tender beyond description. He did favors for strangers that most people wouldn't have done for a close friend.

During the eleven months we served together I saw him cry at least five times. I never thought less of him because of it. I admired and respected him more than anyone I have ever known. The fact that he was capable of tears showed he was a warm hearted human who responded to other humans. That Green Beret will always serve as my model of what a real man ought to be.—Sgt. J.V.J.

DEAR SERGEANT: Your choice of heroes says a great deal about you, Sir. Thanks for writing a poignant and impressive letter.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My frigid wife and I have been arguing for several years about a subject which you discussed in your column recently. We have decided to let you be the judge. My wife says she is frigid on account of me, I say frigidity in women is caused not by the husband, but by the girl's mother. I might add in passing that my wife is very much like her old lady. May we have your verdict?—REJECTED IN SPOKANE.

DEAR RE: I'm no judge and I don't hand down verdicts. I do have opinions however, and I also consult with wiser heads than mine. Here's your answer: Since your wife is a chip off the old glacier it is more than likely that her mother taught her to fear, hate and feel guilty about sex. But — a warm, loving, tender, mature, considerate husband can melt away the icicles and teach his wife to be a rewarding bed partner. In the words of a French philosopher: "There are no frigid women. Only clumsy, inconsiderate men."

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. (c) Publishers-Hall Syndicate.

United In Marriage

St. Joseph's Church of Warren was the scene at 1 p.m., Saturday, June 14, 1969 of the wedding of Gail Shoup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Shoup Jr., 104 E. Wayne street, Warren, Pa. and Joseph Sorce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sorce, 147 Patty Lane, Monroeville, Pa.

The Rev. Norman Smith performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of 100 guests before an altar decorated with vases of white gladioli, stocks and anemone pompons. Randy Ott was the wedding musician.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a beau organza floor length gown with mandarin neck trimmed with Venice lace and seed pearls. The detachable train was trimmed with Venice lace. Her shoulder length silk illusion veil was attached to a pearl crown with tulle petals and she carried a colonial cluster of white roses, white miniature carnations and white daisies set off by a fringe of feathered glad blossoms.

The bridegroom's sister, Debby Sorce, was maid of honor and was attired in a gown of mint green chiffon with long full sleeves and empire waist accented in colored Venice lace. Her headpiece was a Dior bow with layers of silk illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of mint green anemone.

Rosemary Huber, a friend of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a gown similar to that of the honor attendant. She carried a colonial bouquet of white anemone pompons. Margo Elbit, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl and wore a mint green chiffon frock with short sleeves and empire waist accented in colored lace. She wore a Dior bow and carried a basket of white anemone pompons. Jason Coyle was ring bearer.

Richard Hughes, cousin of the bride, was best man and Charles Ebbitt, uncle of the bridegroom, ushered.

The bride's mother was attired in a pink dress with a lace top, matching accessories and white rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose blue chiffon with matching accessories and white rose corsage.

The grandmothers present, Mrs. William J. Shoup Sr. and Mrs. Philip Sorce, were favored with mint green tinted carnation corsages.

The wedding reception was held at Pleasant Township Fire Hall which was decorated with mint and white streamers and bells. Aides were Mrs. Robert Hughes, Mrs. William Hamler, Mrs. Thomas Henry, Mrs. Robert Doran and Mrs. Vincent McBride.

For a honeymoon trip to an undisclosed destination the bride wore a white cotton lace dress with long bell sleeves. The couple is making their home at 413 Taft Place, Warren, Pa. Both are students at Edinboro State College.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. Irene Jordan and Miss Debby Sorce.

Out-of-town guests were present from New Bethlehem, Brookville, Pittsburgh, Pa. and Cleveland, Ohio.

MINUTE CASSEROLE

Heat as directed two packages of the new frozen onions in cream sauce, fold in slivered almonds, drained canned Blue Lake green beans, diced cooked ham and a splash of Sherry if you like. Cover with grated cheese and bake until bubbly.

Mother-Daughter

Banquet Held

A mother-daughter banquet was held recently with 75 in attendance at Emmanuel United Church of Christ.

The dinner was served by the men of the church. A varied program was presented with songs and recitations by Jackie Gray, Vicki Gray, the Littlefield girls, Tina Knopf, Patty Duliba and group singing led by Beverly Petersen. Debbie Zwald gave the toast to mothers with the response by Lenore Zwald. Poems about mothers were read by the toastmistress, Mary McCurdy and Freda Furber gave devotions. Musical numbers were sung by Beverly Littlefield, Hazel Merenick, Clara Burns, Beverly Peterson and the women of the choir, all accompanied by Wendy Stoldt.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. W. Rohrer, Linda Constable, Clarice Littlefield, Lorena Dickerson and the door award was won by Kathy Dickerson.

The committee consisted of Mary McCurdy, Lenore Zwald, Clara Burns, Gloria Merenick and Beverly Petersen.

Annual Conference

The 116th Erie Annual Conference of United Methodist Church, Syracuse Area, will be held at Camp Findley Lake, Findley Lake, N.Y., June 25-29 under the direction of Bishop W. Ralph Ward of Syracuse.

Some of the special stresses will be: Communion and Bishop Ward's address on Wednesday evening; Dr. Harvey Hahn, Pastor Otterbein United Methodist Church, Dayton, Ohio, will speak Thursday evening at which time the service will be in charge of the Commission on Social Concern; the Board of Evangelism will have charge of the Friday evening program and on Saturday evening the stress will be on lay activity and will be under the direction of the new executive secretary of the Board of Lay Activity, Dr. David Self.

Starbrick PTA

Starbrick Fire Auxiliary held its monthly meeting June 18 at the fire hall with eight members and one guest present.

Pat Hoag and Sally Wood were appointed to head a committee for a baby sitting instruction course for girls from the seventh grade up. Girls are to contact Mrs. Wood.

A photographer will be at the fire hall July 1 to take pictures. The auxiliary will be calling at homes in the community.

Firemen held an appreciation dinner for active auxiliary members June 7 with entertainment featured.

Medical Mirror

PUBERTY PROBLEM

Q. What can be done for a 14-year-old boy whose breasts have begun to enlarge?

A. Breast enlargement at puberty is said to occur in about 80 per cent of boys. In most cases the enlargement is scarcely noticeable. A medical examination is called for when the enlargement is pronounced. Treatment may or may not be in order.

PRESERVING SIGHT

Q. What precautions should an older person take to preserve the eyesight? Would it help to avoid reading in bed, to wear sunglasses, to avoid watching TV, etc.?

A. So far as eye health is concerned, there are no special restrictions that need be applied to older persons. No special dangers arise from reading in bed, watching television, and moderate exposure to sunlight. Normal use of the eyes won't affect the vision.

Measured by fast relief from pain or swift recovery from illness — prescribed medicine is priceless. Measured by our reasonable prices, prescribed medicine is the biggest "bargain" money can buy.

Married In Garland

Mary Ann Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Williams, Garland, Pa. and George Gary Manross, son of Mr. Edgar C. Manross of Tusville, Pa., were united in marriage at 2 p.m., June 1, 1969 in Garland United Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. H. Kenneth Leishman of Corry, Pa. performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with candelabra, ferns and vases of white gladioli accented with green and yellow tinted mums.

Mrs. Betty Danielson of Grand Valley was pianist and J. Thompson of Youngsville, the soloist.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of organza with lace bodice and bateau neckline. Fashioned with an empire waistline, the skirt had a wide lace panel in front and the train was of organza with lace panels circled in lace. Long sleeves ended in wedding points.

She wore her sister's bridal veil which featured a spray of sequins and tiny leaves and the traditional old, new, borrowed and blue, a gift from the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Ella Childs. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses, lilies of the valley and ivy streamers on a white Bible.

Miss Barbara Danielson was maid of honor and was attired in a floor length gown of green chiffon over taffeta with lace bodice, short sleeves and round neckline with a lace panel. Her headpiece was a circular veil of matching net with a small bow at the center.

Gowned the same as the honor attendant only in yellow were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Catherine Greer, sister of the bride, Miss Judy Wilson and Miss Denise Knapic. All carried white carnations with ivy and ribbon streamers mounted on white Bible, gifts of the bride.

Stewart Steinberg served as best man and ushers were Robert Reisinger, Cleveland, Ohio and Allen Niemi, Cleveland.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress in yellow with white accessories and white carnation corsage.

The wedding reception was held at Pittsfield Community House where decorations were in green and yellow. A five-tier wedding cake was baked and served by Mrs. Lottie Foster of Corry. Aides were Mrs. Donna Williams, Miss Janet Williams, Miss Margie Mason, Miss Carolyn Bugbee and Mrs. Winifred Bugbee.

For a honeymoon trip to an undisclosed destination, the new Mrs. Manross wore a oyster white suit with beige and brown accessories. The couple is making their home at 8035 Charlesderry Road, Kirtland, Ohio.

The bride is a 1967 graduate of Youngsville High School and just completed her second year at Venango Campus of Clarion State College. She plans to attend Cleveland State University in the fall. The bridegroom is a 1963 graduate of Tusville High School, attended Kent State University, Kent, Ohio and graduated from Automation Institute in IBM, Cleveland, Ohio. He is employed in Public Relations with Diamond Shamrock Chemical Co. in Cleveland.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. Donna Williams, Miss Janet Williams, Mrs. Thomas Greer and classmates at the campus.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: I've just had what I think is a terrific idea: You know how so many grocery stores give dishes away with certain amounts purchased? Or with designated amounts bought, you can buy pieces to make up place settings at a great discount? Well, I was thinking about how many people live alone and how nice it would be to give them one complete place setting of dishes. Think of what a lift it would be, especially for the elderly. So often we find it very difficult to decide on gifts for them. You don't have to wait for a special occasion, just make it a "thinking-of-you-gift." That's the best kind anyway! Mrs. J. H.

I think that's just about the greatest idea in many a moon. Wish I had thought of it myself. Thanks a bunch! Heloise some of the colors in them tend to run when the shellac is put on. The magazine pictures won't.

Mrs. M. Marshall

DEAR HELOISE: My husband doesn't drink coffee in the morning. Since I don't like to make a whole pot just for myself, this is what I do: I take a small funnel, one which has a small enough bottom to place in my coffee mug. Then I put a facial tissue inside the funnel to act as a filter and put in enough regular drip grind coffee to make one cup. I pour boiling water over the coffee and let it seep through the tissue until I have enough for the cup. Delicious! But unless you want perfumed coffee, don't use scented tissue. A Fan

What an of smartie! How about funneling me a cup? Sounds great. Heloise

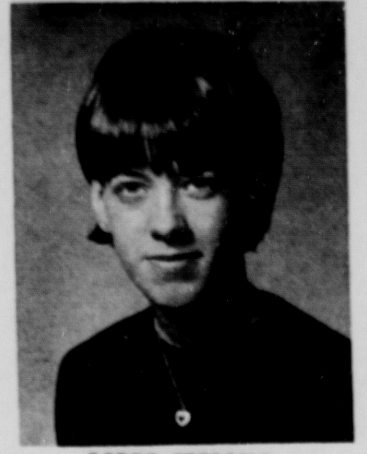

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE: In order to stay afloat financially, we housewives will have to use that old saying, "Eat it up; Wear it out; Make it do; or Do without." Mrs. Glen Thornton

DEAR HELOISE: I had my husband cut down an old table to about twenty inches high. Then I repainted it and covered the top with pictures from magazines. Mostly pictures of trains, tractors, planes, boats, and toys of all kinds. All pictures that would interest a two-year-old boy. I covered the table with shellac and believe you me, it's just adorable. Our grandson is really enjoying the table—not only for his play area, but is fascinated with the pictures. I would not recommend using catalog pictures because

DEAR HELOISE: When an over-blouse is so sheer that the skirt underneath shows through, I take a pinkish shears and cut off the top of an old slip to wear under the blouse. The bottom part of the slip is not wasted because I use it to line the deep lace hem of a newer slip. Lace hems aren't shadow-proof, so this problem is also solved. Faithful Reader

G.C. Murphy Receives Sponsor Award

G. C. Murphy Company, a McKeesport based variety firm, which has sponsored a car in the Indianapolis "500" for five consecutive years, was singled out to receive the Sponsor of the Year Award by the "500" Festival Associates, Inc. prior to the 1969 Memorial Day classic.

In accepting the award, E. L. Paxton, President, pointed out that although the company's entry dropped out of the 1969 race after 157 laps due to mechanical problems, the sponsorship investment was highly rewarding and will be continued. The 1969 "500" Mile Race was a full 3 hour commercial for Murphy, he pointed out, with 300,000 fans attending the race and millions of others watching on closed circuit television and listening on the 1,000 station Speedway Radio Network.

Other "500" Festival annual awards were made to the Car Builder, Official, Car Owner, Driver, Accessory Firm and Contributor to the Sport.

BERNIE WINGERT

Your County Agent

By BERNIE WINGERT
County Agent

It has been raining enough lately to make "hay" an almost impossible task for some folks. Others seem to be getting in between showers. Even the golfers are getting a little "fisty" when you talk about rain. You should remember one nice thing when you get to feeling too bad about the sad state of the weather and that is that the strawberry season will last longer with cool days and nights. These rainy days are made to order for the berry crop.

Friday, the wool growers from the county hauled their year's wool clip to Titusville to be graded, weighed and shipped to the wool works. I weighed at one scale until the middle of the afternoon and enjoyed the banter of the boys "stomping" the graded wool in the huge shipping bags. It's packed tightly in a burlap bag about nine feet deep and three feet in diameter, then loaded into a freight car by three or four husky boys. There's nothing much mechanized in the wool business. It's still a hand job to clip it, tie it, grade it, pack it and finally load it. I'm told the mechanization does set in though when the bags finally arrive at the woolen mill. The day was not only chilly but damp, a good combination for handling fleeces.

Now that we've talked weather, wool, and strawberries, let's spend a minute or so on a report that just got uncovered on my desk top. I'm quoting now—

"Sec. of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin released a report on June 4 which was prepared by a committee of the National Academy of Sciences—National Research Council, on persistent pesticides and their effects on man, agriculture and the environment."

"In general the report pointed to adequate protection of man's food and health under the present systems of controls. It did, however, recommend expanded research leading to the development of new pesticidal chemicals and techniques for using them and the strengthening of the regulation and monitoring of persistent pesticides to provide long-range protection for wildlife and environment as a whole."

One statement in the report that I was particularly pleased to read said "AVAILABLE EVIDENCE DOES NOT INDICATE THAT PRESENT LEVELS OF PESTICIDE RESIDUES IN MAN'S FOOD AND ENvironment PRODUCE AN ADVERSE EFFECT ON HIS HEALTH."

That's more than you can say for cigarettes, isn't it?

The Fair Board met Thursday evening in the office at the new fairgrounds. As yet there aren't any screen doors but we needed some air so the doors were opened. By the time the meeting was finished the room contained more night flying insects than 50 people could have swatted to death with a rolled up newspaper. I thought at the time that even the most "anti-insecticide" would surely vote for the use of a little shot of malathion under those conditions.

Finally the best story I heard at the wool pool goes like this—A 75 year old sheep man was asked why he married the 7th time. "Well, I'll tell you—for the little bit they eat, I wouldn't be without one."

Rodney Maier Captures Action-Packed Soap Box Derby

By DENNY BONAVITA
The cheers of 1,000 spectators and a flock of awards will keep Rodney Maier of 403 Conewango avenue company on his flight to Akron in August as the 13-year-old builder-driver piloted his blue National Forge-sponsored racer to five straight triumphs and a first-place finish in Saturday's Warren County Soap Box Derby.

The model airplane enthusiast, who enters Beauty Junior High's eighth grade this fall, nosed out Class B winner Ben Yeagle by half a carlength, traveling the Central Avenue course on Warren's east side in a flashing 20.9 seconds.

The event, sponsored for the second straight year by the Warren Jaycees, in cooperation with Dan's Chevrolet and the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer, went off like clockwork under sunny skies and mid-70 temperatures as 51 entrants competed in an exciting climax to the two months of designing, building and racing their gravity-powered vehicles. After a morning of trial runs and a last-minute adjustments, and an on-site lunch, Norman Koller and Ron McNitt rolled down the 24-foot ramps at the top of the course to start the event a few minutes past 1 p.m.

Three hours later, Maier and Yeagle staged their climactic duel. The event is a part of the preliminaries to the annual All-American Soap Box Derby to be held in Akron, Ohio, on August 23, and is open to all boys 11 through 15. Sponsored by Chevrolet in cooperation with leading newspapers, over 250 communities are expected to send entrants to the Derby Downs for a crack at a $7,500 college scholarship and a raft of other prizes.

There was variety in construction of all racers entered, with everything from blunt-nosed reminders of the orange crates of years ago to sleek, sharp nosed replicas of Indy 500 entries. Judges Jack Donaldson, chief of police Mike Evan, and this reporter were confronted with their first dilemma barely ten minutes into the afternoon as Robby Simonsen and Archie Baker buzzed their vehicles across the finish line in a dead heat that even the special Polaroid camera couldn't separate; after a rerun, Simonsen was adjudged the winner by half a length. Attesting to the skill in construction of all entrants was the minuscule spread in finish times. 22.8 seconds was the slowest time recorded, while Maier in his championship run and Bob Burger in two separate heats were clocked in 20.9 seconds.

Only one rerun was needed because of a rules infraction, as debris on the track hindered the third-heat run of Norman Koller and Steven Witkin; Koller zipped to victory in both the initial and second trials. Quarterfinals found eight racers still active, with Paul Burger, James Ziegler, Maier and Rick Gustafson competing in Class A, and Norm Koller, Bob Burger, David Hampson and Ben Yeagle active in Class B. The class designations, by age, were conceived solely as an entry-control device, and did not affect the final selection of a winner.

Koller won an Instamatic camera, Gustafson a walkie-talkie, Paul Burger a YMCA membership, Bob Burger a Sylvania AM-FM radio, and Ben Yeagle a mantel trophy and Schwinn bicycle. For Maier, the prizes included a plaque trophy and $500 savings bond from Chevrolet, and the promise of his own private plane ride to Akron in Lou Gheres' plane, to be piloted by Jack Shattuck.

emcee LeRoy Schneck and Miss Warren County, Barbara Black, presented awards to the contestants. All heat winners received merchandise certificates, and trophies were passed out to Warren Dobson for the best construction job, Brian Elliott for the best brakes, Ron McNitt for the best upholstery and Bob Burger for the fastest heat.

Denny Bonavita From The Sports Desk Quite A Day

The kids got the headlines, and justly so; for it was their months of work and willingness to sacrifice those hours at play that built the racers in the first place. And it was their competition that made the race a contest to be enjoyed by spectators, proud of by parents, and thrilling for the kids.

But there is a whole gaggle of people who stood backstage at this event, and all they did was put in the tiring hours, days weeks, months that go into preparing an event of this kind. That gaggle is the Warren Jaycees, their understanding and helpful wives and a few indispensable just plain "good gus" who, though not Jaycee members, pitched in and pulled with the best of them to see this event through.

And there is another group of people, about whom much malignant is said "Their prices are too high;" and "they never have enough selection;" and "all they do is take my money." This group is the business and professional community in the county, who shelled out donations ranging from a $5.00 gift certificate to hundreds of dollars in prize money, and put up with the tired morning-after mumbblings of their Jaycee employees who cadged minutes and hours away from work to do the job of putting the Derby together. The merchants may not be a lot of things in some peoples' eyes; but, judging by their response to this event, the Hot Stove League program, and a raft of other ventures, they are by and large a community-minded group and deserve some commendation.

Naming names is the last thing these fellows want, as they do their thing for the enjoyment it brings, not the publicity. But at the followup banquet awards were presented by emcee LeRoy Schneck to promotion chairman Nick Petchel, race director Jim Eberly, and inspection and clinic chairman Chuck Fasciana, and an ovation was given the meet's executive director, George Means. Dan's Chevrolet, radio stations WNAE and WRRN, and the Times-Mirror and Observer were also honored with plaques from the Jaycees. So, knowing that these men and organizations, while contributing mightily to the Derby's success, were just the top of the iceberg that moved the event to culmination, we'd like to say "well done" to all concerned. It was quite a fine day.

Emmons Jones

The sports world has lost a fine friend and tremendous booster in Emmons Jones, who passed away over the weekend. Think back through every activity of a sporting nature, no matter what, for the last 10 years; wasn't there at least one Warren Beverage entry in every one, thanks to the generosity of Jones? This generosity was not born of a desire for ego-building; rather, it came from a genuine love of sports, especially baseball and basketball, and a joy in being with the athletes who participated. He will be sadly missed.

SHORT SPORTS Take a look at today's Page 11; then tell me baseball's season isn't too long, and it's leagues aren't too crowded with nonentity players. . . who's going to win the Quarry-Frazier fight? My hunch is Joe Frazier; he's a lot steeper fighter than the mercurial Quarry.

THE CHAMPION

Perched atop his winning racer and clutching the checkered flag of victory, 13-year-old Rodney Maier of 403 Conewango ave., Warren, speculates on the effort expended to capture Saturday's Soap Box Derby. The event, sponsored by the Warren Jaycees in cooperation with Dan's Chevrolet and the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer, was a huge success with over 50 entries. (Photos by Bonavita)

Schnars Snags Feature At Stateline Saturday

By CRAIG MILLER

Excitement—produced by the cool, crisp temperatures and hot fighting on the track—keynoted Saturday's evening of racing at Stateline from the initial start to the new-car finale.

Bobby Schnars won the 25-lap feature in the Late Model division after a fierce dogfight with Sammy Lamancuso and John Whitehead—by about the length of the preceding dash in the line of type.

All three cars came off the final turn in hot pursuit of each other, but Bobby Schnars' lead foot zoomed him just ahead of the fast-closing Lamancuso and Whitehead.

A determined Ron Blackmer streaked across the finish line, far ahead of his nearest competitor in the Sportsman main event. Before Blackmer took the lead, Skip Furlow (40), Jim Sloan (12) and Sturgess Wassink (57) battled for the lead. On the 16th lap Ron Blackmer made his move and he held on for nine laps to win the event.

In the Hooligan class, Dick Gilbert topped the field of 22 in the feature after three complete restarts were necessitated by jumps at the first turn. The race was, as usual, a real fender-bender, with loose wheels kayoing several entrants and a spectacular, crowd-shocking lost-tire-and-flipover by Car 50 stirring the spectators.

Fifteen drivers were still active behind Gilbert at the finish, as the winner had to come out of a five-car dogfight at almost the last second. Roger Boland (666), Roger Rundell (19), Jack Walker, (18) and Skip Vincent (01) provided the competition.

Pontiac-sponsored racer after clipping Brian Elliott in the third heat of the race.

THE COURSE IS READY

With spectators lining both sides of the Central Avenue course, Norman Koller and Ron McNitt start their racers down the ramps to inaugurate competition in Saturday's Warren Soap Box

Derby. Over 1,000 people were on hand to watch the 51 racers compete for local prizes and a trip to Akron.

owner's) caressing Rodney Maier's winning National Forge-sponsored racer mirror the emotions of all the entrants. Oh, yeah—the third judge; where's he? Well, somebody had to hold the camera. (Photo by Bonavita)

National League

L.A. Wins Sixth In Row

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bill Singer blanked Cincinnati on five hits and catcher Tom Hall or batted out four for Los Angeles as the Dodgers defeated the Reds 5-0 Sunday for their sixth consecutive victory.

Singer coasted to his eighth victory in 14 decisions, striking out seven as the Dodgers blanked the hard-hitting Reds for the second straight game.

Maury Wills' triple and a sacrifice fly by Willie Davis in the first inning gave the Los Angeles right-hander the only run he needed.

Wynn, who posted his first major league victory last Monday, allowed no runners past second in notching his second straight complete-game victory.

Loser Jim McGlothlin, 5-6, went eight innings before departing for a pinchhitter.

Expos Split With Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — The Montreal Expos edged the Chicago Cubs 5-4 when the second game of their Sunday doubleheader was called after six innings because of darkness.

Jim Hickman's two-run homer with two out in the ninth capped a four-run rally that gave the Cubs a 7-6 victory in the opener.

The split chopped the Cubs' lead in the National League East to 4½ games over the New York Mets, who took a pair from St. Louis.

Ron Fairly tripled Ty Cline home with the tie-breaking run in the fourth inning of the nightcap and then scored the winning run on Rusty Staub's single. Reggie Miller and McGinnis singled in a run in the Chicago fourth.

The Expos had taken a 3-0 lead in the first when Chicago center fielder Don Young dropped a short fly ball with the bases loaded and all three runners scored.

But the Cubs matched it in their half on a two-run double by Ron Santo and Ernie Banks' RBI single.

Douglass Wins Kemper Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Lanky Dale Douglass, the quiet man from the mountains of Colorado, placidly ignored the sweltering heat and building pressure Sunday and shot a 61-around 67 and won the Kemper Open Golf tournament.

Douglass had a 72-hole score of 274, 14 under par for four trips around the 7,205-yard, par 72 Quail Hollow Country Club course, and won by four strokes over Charles Coody.

Coody fashioned a course record-matching 65 for 278 and was alone in second place.

Pennell Sets Vault Mark

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "I just wanted that record back — it's been two years," pole vaulter John Pennell crowed after soaring over the bar at 17.10½ to set a new world mark.

The lanky Olympian from the Southern Californian Striders grinned as he signed autographs for the youngsters — including other athletes — who swirled around him after his electrifying performance at Saturday's Sacramento Invitational Track and Field Meet.

"That record was all that counted. That's what I came here for. I knew I could do it!" Pennell said after shattering the 17.9 mark set last year by Bob Seagren.

Then, almost as an afterthought, he added: "Now I want that 18-foot mark."

Sunset Loop Results

The JCG combined the tough pitching of Tim Albaugh and the bat of Jim Mock to down the C & M Market 11-4. In his performance Albaugh fanned 10, while Mock cracked two doubles. This makes the third win in a row for JCG and leaves them 3 and 2 in league play.

C & M Market opened in the first with two runs. This was the last time they enjoyed a lead as the JCG stormed back with 6 runs. In the second, Jeff Fralley had the only other extra-base hit as he also had a double.

Bucs Cop 1st Drop 2nd

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Larry Hise's run-scoring single in the eighth inning gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh and a split of their Sunday doubleheader.

The Pirates took the opener 6-0 on Dock Ellis' six-hitter before a Bat Day crowd of 33,712.

Ron Stone opened the eighth inning of the nightcap with a single off right-hander Steve Blass, and Terry Harmon sacrificed. Pitcher Grant Jackson struck out, but Hise, who had homered earlier, broke a 2-2 tie with a single to center.

Jackson, 7-6, gave up a triple by Roberto Clemente and a homer by Willie Stargell in the first inning, then blanked the Pirates the rest of the way.

Matty Alou, the National League batting leader, poked four hits in the opener and Clemente contributed three in a 16-hit Pittsburgh barrage that helped Ellis, 4-7, breeze to his first shutout in the majors.

Mets Drop Cards Twice

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Koosman, given a rare run on Bud Harrelson's triple and Tommie Agee's double, silenced St. Louis on seven hits, giving the stunning New York Mets a 1-0 victory and a doubleheader sweep over the Cardinals Sunday.

Rookie Gary Gentry, with relief in the ninth inning, stopped the Cardinals in the opener 5-1. Harrelson lined a two-out triple into right-center field in the seventh inning and Agee followed with a bouncing double over the head of third baseman Mike Shannon, that made a loser of starter Mike Torrez, 1-4. It was only the ninth run scored for Koosman in 60 innings since he returned from a shoulder injury. In that time he has yielded only four earned runs.

Braves-Giants Split

ATLANTA (AP) — Frank Linzy's wild pitch with the bases loaded in the eighth inning triggered a four-run uprising that sent the Atlanta Braves to a 7-5 victory over San Francisco in the second game of their Sunday doubleheader.

The Giants took the opener 5-1 behind Juan Marichal's five-hit pitching and home runs by Jackie Hitt, Willie McCovey and Ken Henderson.

The split left the Braves one-half game behind Los Angeles in the National League West.

Astros Top Padres

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros, held hitless for six innings by San Diego's Joe Niekro, broke a scoreless tie in the seventh on two singles and two errors and went on to blank the stumbling Padres 2-0 Sunday behind southpaw Denny Lemaster.

Lemaster pitched a five-hitter, squaring his record at 7-7, as the Astros extended their winning string to six games and handed San Diego its eighth successive setback.

Niekro, 2-5, whose no-hit bid was kept alive in third when Sandy Valdespino was ruled out for failing to touch first base running out a double, got the first out in the seventh.

Third baseman Ed Spiezio then booted Jim Wynn's grounder and Denis Menke followed with a single to left for the first Houston hit. John Edwards also singled to left and when Spiezio took the throw to third and heaved wildly past second trying to nail Menke rounding the bag, Wynn raced home on the error.

Some Physicians Profiteering On Commercial Lab Tests

CHICAGO (AP) — Some physicians are abusing patients by padding bills for tests performed inexpensively by commercial laboratories, says the judicial council of the American Medical Association.

The number of physicians overcharging the public by this practice is comparatively few, says an AMA spokesman, but they are acting so unethically we have to make a concerted effort to correct the abuse they are guilty of.

The report, completed last week for the AMA's upcoming annual meeting in New York, stressed that doctors may not profit from services which they do not perform themselves. "The attending physician is exploiting his patient and is acting contrary to the ethics of the medical profession," when he adds his charge to a laboratory's charge, says Dr. E. G. Shelley, chairman of the council.

There is no way of knowing just how many doctors are overcharging their patients, admits the spokesman, but he says it exists to some extent "in every major community of which we have knowledge."

And the problem has increased with automation of many of the once complicated and tedious testing procedures. An analyzer can now perform 12 tests on one blood sample in two or three hours. It once took a laboratory technician two or three days to perform the same task.

Laboratories usually charge doctors $6 to $15 for such a test, but some physicians are then billing patients $5 for each of the 12 tests, the report says.

The patient's bill totals $60 and the doctor makes a profit of $45 to $54 on work he did not do.

Laboratory tests on spinal fluid, urine, tissue are also being performed by automated procedures at a lower cost than before to doctors.

Ethical doctors and some patients have complained to the AMA about the practice. Unfortunately, admits the AMA spokesman, most patients are unaware of the practice and meekly pay their bills.

"The practice can be stopped only if people know it's going on," the spokesman said. He advised patients to take bills they consider to be too high to their county medical societies.

The report urges that laboratories bill patients directly for any tests they perform, without going through the doctor as a middleman.

Where it is necessary for physicians to bill patients for the tests, it says, the bill should give the name of the laboratory and the exact amount of the laboratory's charge.

The report bluntly labels a physician who chooses a laboratory because of its low cost to him for fatter profits, as "derelict in not acting in the best interest of his patient."

However, the AMA News, noting that the AMA is already on record against the practice, said in a recent editorial that "more than a statement is needed." Curbing the practice, it said, will require "forceful, responsible action" by the medical profession.

'Confessed' Slayer Faces Lie Detector Test

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Nashville man who police said signed confessions to the slaying of two Michigan girls and an Oklahoma City taxi driver will be given a lie detector test. But authorities in Michigan and Oklahoma indicated they were skeptical about his confessions.

"He's agreed to a polygraph (lie detector)," said Nashville police detective Lt. Kenneth Reasonover. "It looks like he'll definitely get one."

Police said Ernest Paul Sims, 26, signed the statements early Sunday in connection with two of the six Michigan "coed murders" and the slaying of Eugene Stephens, 46, an Oklahoma City cab driver who was killed early May 17.

Authorities in Ann Arbor, Mich., and Oklahoma City said they did not plan to send detectives to question Sims in Nashville until they learned more about his statements.

Sims was questioned after an informer inside the jail tipped police that he might be involved in the killings, Sims was quoted by Sgt. Doug Dennis as saying, "O.K., I just want to tell the truth."

Sims, identified as a former student at Eastern Michigan University, has been in jail three weeks on a breach of trust charge. He had been returned here from Missouri to face the charges, involving credit card misuse.

Detectives said Sims told them he was vague on the slaying of the first girl because he was on marijuana. But they said he told them he met a girl named "Dawn" on a residential street and talked her into getting into his car.

He added, police said, that Sims told them, "I don't remember whether I strangled her with my hands or with her blouse."

Dawn Basom, 13, is one of the six girls who have been found slain within a 20-mile radius of Ann Arbor, site of the University of Michigan, since August 1967. All except Dawn, slain April 16, have been university students.

Police said Sims said he stabbed Stephens to death with a four-inch knife, taking $40. Officers said Stephens' change maker was missing when the taxi driver was found, but his wallet was intact.

Butler County Man Is Killed
FREEPORT, Pa. (AP) — Donald Sasse, 22, of Cabot in Butler County was killed when the car he was a passenger in collided with a tractor-trailer truck.

Police said the car was pulling into a driveway Saturday on Pennsylvania 356 near Jefferson Township when the accident happened. Four other persons were injured.

Dies of Injuries
ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Bernard Stankiewicz, 48, of Erie died Sunday of injuries suffered Saturday in a three-car accident.

Police said Stankiewicz's car slammed into the rear of another car which then rammed another car in Erie's East Side.

Being further identified on Warren County Tax Map as Map and Parcel No. YV 959-257.

Together with all and singular the said property improvements, and appurtenances whatsoever thereunto belonging, or in anywise appertaining.

Seized and taken in execution and will be sold as the property of Charles W. Camp, Jr., and Patricia M. Camp, wife, at the suit of The Pennsylvania Bank & Trust Company, Youngsville, Pennsylvania.

GOREN

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
(10 of 11 in the Chess Times)
ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠743 ♠AK8 ♦AJ9 ♣88653
The bidding has proceeded:
East South
1 ♠ 7
What do you bid?
A.—Pass. This hand is not of the type that lends itself conveniently to a take-out double. You need only visualize that your hand will be the future dummy and that it will have very little trick-taking power for partner. There is the further disadvantage that you will be forcing your partner to bid at the level of two.

Q. 2—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:
♠KQ75 ♥A76 ♦6542 ♣72
What is your response?
A.—Two hearts. This is superior to a bid of one spade, because you have only a fair hand and cannot afford to bid both spades and hearts.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, opponent opens with one diamond and you hold:
♠AKJ105 ♥A1053 ♦K32 ♣5
What do you bid?
A.—Double. If partner responds with two clubs, you are strong enough to bid two spades with reasonable safety. If your answer was one spade, stay after school.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J107654 ♥K975 ♦42 ♣4
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♦ Dble. ?
What do you bid?
A.—One spade. With this distribution including so many cards in the major suits, surely you will wish to take some action. If you wait, the bidding partner will get too complicated for you to enter the conversation conveniently, and you will thus be shut out.

Q. 5—You are South, vulnerable, with a 90 part score and hold:
♠AJ6 ♥A95 ♦K8432 ♣72
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid?
A.—Two spades. With the advanced part score you are in position to temporize, since a two diamond response would not be considered forcing. The bid least likely to complicate matters is a simple raise. Since it is a bid over score, partner will recognize that you may have more than a normal raise so that, if he has excess values, he will be in position to proceed.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK ♥A4 ♦852 ♣A98653
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠
2 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. A cue bid forcing to game. Now that partner has rebid hearts, you can safely prepare to play for a game in that suit or it might lead to a sound contract of three no trump.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK6 ♥AQ82 ♦AQ7 ♣J83
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass Pass 1 ♠ ?
What do you bid?
A.—Double. This hand, containing 20 points, is too big for a one no trump overall. It is necessary, therefore, to double and bid two no trump over partner's response of two in a suit.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠Q752 ♥AK754 ♦KJ ♣93
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♦ Pass 4 ♥ Pass
5 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—There is little doubt that your partnership will reach at least a small slam in spades, but, the better to investigate grand slam possibilities, bid five diamonds at this point to show possession of the king. If partner makes a further drastic try by bidding something like six clubs to show the king, we would then bid six hearts to show the second round control of that suit.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR MONDAY, JUNE 23, 1969.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Avoid a tendency to haste now or you may make needless errors, trip over something you would see if you did not rush. But avoid needless delays. Follow that old middle course!

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Here is a day suited to your special skills and artistry. However, work matters, domestic concerns and personal relationships generally will demand more than usual care.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Streamline wherever it will accelerate progress, but don't bypass those "little" details which can be so important. A so-so day, awaiting your clever management.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Rugged ambition is day's need; also, the fortitude not to break your stride hesitatingly when obstacles, new problems appear. Use that bright mind of yours.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—STOP—to note where you are going. Handling your own or others' affairs may present new or increased problems. Be ready for changes. Don't make unnecessary ones, but accept those which are desirable.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Have faith in your objectives, confidence in your methods—providing that you have deliberated and made sure just WHAT those objectives and methods should be.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Avoid a tendency toward lethargy since your planetary influences promise fine achievement. Lax habits always tempt, but normally the well-developed Libran does not submit: Be steadfast now.

How to Keep Well

THINNING BONES
When our 75-year-old aunt fractured her hip, we wondered if the bone broke first and she fell, or if she tripped, and broke the hip as she hit the ground. We knew that she had fragile bones due to osteoporosis because X-rays were taken after she complained of backache. The radiograph showed a lack of minerals in the bone tissue.

We may never know the answer. It is estimated that one million women over 45 sustain fractures each year; and of these, 700,000 have osteoporosis. In addition, the fracture rates of osteoporosis are twice that of those without brittle bones. All too often the broken hip or spine is the first sign of the disease. The hip may break even after minimal stress is applied to the joint.

At least 40 per cent of the mineral content of the bone must be lost before the condition is detectable via X-ray. The cause of osteoporosis is not known but it is related to lessening of physical activity and to the gradual waning of the female hormone secretions.

Dietary habits also affect the bones. Calcium deficits are incriminated and one authority found that many of the victims were chronic milk haters.

With advanced age and lessened activity, varying degrees of muscle weakness ensue. Furthermore, oldsters have poor coordination and balance and there is a tendency for the eyesight to fail. These impairments are mentioned because many fractures are related to falling regardless of whether or not osteoporosis exists. Calcium and estrogens are used most frequently in the prevention and treatment of osteoporosis, even though there is no conclusive evidence that these measures increase skeletal mass or bone density. Proper diet, optimal activity, and supplementary multiple vitamins with minerals should be helpful. Fluorides also have been recommended.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

NEVER DRINKS WATER
R. A. writes: My brother, age 15, never drinks any water. Instead, he drinks several bottles of carbonated beverages a day. I have told him this is bad for his system and will also cause his teeth to decay faster but he just laughs at me. What is your opinion?

REPLY
There is no harm if the beverage agrees with him. Soft drinks containing sugars, lemons, and limes are known to encourage cavities.

STUNG BY BEE
P.H. writes: What is the best thing to do when stung by a bee?

REPLY
If the insect was a honey bee, remove the stinger gently. Apply cool baking soda compresses and then one of the ointments containing an antihistamine or a steroid. Calamine lotion is good, too. My daughter, Jane, is a great advocate of mud packs for bee stings.

Chautauqua Opens Season Thursday

Chautauqua Institution's opening program of the season will be a concert by soloist Valfrido Patachi on Thursday, June 26, according to Dr. Curtis W. Haug, president and program director of Chautauqua. Excerpts from musical comedies, operatic arias and art songs will be presented.

Haug also announced the program of events for the season, including orchestra concerts, instrumental soloists, singers, plays, operas and lectures.

The Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra, under the musical direction of Walter Hendl, will present 22 concerts this summer on Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday evenings. Five guest conductors and many soloists will join the orchestra in their program which opens July 2 and closes August 20. Among the guest conductors during the 1969 season are Meredith Willson, July 5; Morton Gould, July 9; Arthur Fiedler, August 13; and Mitch Miller, August 19. Franco Aurioli, guest conductor for August 9, will be remembered as the conductor of the Chautauqua Symphony Orchestra from 1944-1952. Presently he is conductor of the Tulsa Philharmonic.

On July 23, music from the operettas of pianist-composer, Rudolf Friml, will be featured. Mr. Friml, who celebrates his 91st birthday this year, will be guest soloist at the piano with the orchestra. Guest soloists will sing some of Friml's best-known songs.

Violin virtuoso Sidney Harth will be guest soloist with the orchestra on July 26 and July 29. Masuko Ushioda, young Japanese prize-winning violinist, will be heard with the orchestra on August 12.

The Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra, under the direction of William Steinberg, will give a concert in the Amphitheater on Saturday, June 28. The Pittsburgh Symphony brings 101 musicians to Chautauqua, many of whom also play during the summer season with the Chautauqua Symphony. Other special musical events will be the Duo Romanos from Spain's first family of classical guitar on June 30; Hollywood and television singing star John Davidson on July 14 and the Piano Portraits of Ferrante and Teicher on July 31.

The Kujawiaki Polish Dancers from Alliance College in Pennsylvania come to the Amphitheater on August 22. Also for dance fans, Statia Sublette will direct "An Evening of Ballet," presented by the Chautauqua Dance Company. The Concert of Barbershop Harmony on August 23 features the Four Statesmen of Boston, the Pastimers of Rochester, the Avant Garde Quartet of Chicago and a chorus.

The Amphitheater will be open to all area residents and visitors four times this summer with no gate fee. These dates are July 1 when Dr. Paul Dudley White, noted authority on heart disease, will speak on diet and exercise; the Fourth of July when Mayor Walter Washington of Washington, D.C., will give an address; August 1, a major address by Senator Charles E. Goodell, and August 8, a performance by the United States Army Field Band.

Norton Memorial Hall opens its doors for the first play of the season on July 3. Plays will be presented Tuesday and Thursday evenings by the Chautauqua Repertory Theatre directed by Richard Oberlin. On the playbill this season are "The Play's the Thing" (July 3-5); "The Birthday Party" (July 10-12); "The Male Animal" (July 17-19); "After the Rain" (July 24-26); "Ah Wilderness!" (July 31-August 2) and "Mrs. Lincoln" (August 7-9).

The Chautauqua Opera Company, directed by Leonard Treash, will offer seven operas this season to be presented on Monday and Friday evenings. Presentations will be "The Pirates of Penzance" (July 11-14); "The Magic Flute" (July 18-21); "Carmen" (July 25-28, Matinee, July 26); a double bill, "The Old Maid and the Thief" and "I Pagliacci" (August 1-4); "La Boheme" (August 8-11 with a matinee August 9) and "The Student Prince" (August 14, 15 and 18).

Chautauqua Art Association will sponsor its 12th National Jury Show June 29-July 20 and the 17th annual Bestor Plaza Art Festival August 9.

PLAYS IN 'FANTASTICKS'

Bill Porter opens in "Fantasticks" Tuesday for a two week run at Plowright Playhouse. He repeats his role as the father of the boys. Tickets for the musical are available at the B & B Smoke shop or at the door.

Plowright Playhouse To Present 'Fantasticks'

"The Fantasticks," the longest running musical comedy in history, opens a ten-day run Tuesday, June 24, at the Plowright Playhouse in Scandia. The play will run June 24-28 and July 1-5 with an 8:30 curtain.

Bob Kates, from Warren, will repeat his performance as Matt, the love-struck young man. Kates, who is set designer for the Plowright Theater, has been with the theater since 1967.

Luisa, the girl next door, will be double cast with Miss Suzi Rosenblum playing the part the first week, while Miss Susan Mieras will take over during the second week.

Miss Rosenblum is a drama major at Penn State and played Luisa in last year's production. Miss Mieras, who has been performing for several years, is from Whittier, Calif.

Creating the roles of the two fathers will be Bill Porter and Tom Ott. Kenn Long, currently playing "Chuckles" in "A Thousand Clowns" will step into the shoes of El Gallo, bandit and bon vivant.

Rounding out the cast will be Peter Mitchell, as the old actor, Van Crozier as Mortimer, and Donna Harris as the mute.

The show is directed by Miss Marjorie Melnick, artistic director for the Playhouse.

The Plowright Playhouse is located 10 miles from Warren on the Scandia road.

How They Voted

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG -- Unusually heavy final action voting on a host of bills marked legislative sessions during the past week of June 16 in both the Senate and House of Representatives with individual voting on major legislation as follows by area lawmakers (Representatives W. William Allen, Tidoute; Victor J. Westerberg, Kane, and Senator Richard C. Frame, Franklin):

SENATE
S-408--(Passed)--Establish a new Pennsylvania "Department of Transportation" to consolidate the functions of highways, railroads, air and waterways and pipelines.
(Frame -- Yes);

S-433--(Passed)--Amend the "Administrative Code" to permit expense reimbursement either on a flat per diem basis, or as set by the State Executive Board, which is given wide latitude in permitting moving expenses in the event of transfer, and expenses for persons invited for interviews by the Commonwealth.
(Frame -- Yes);

S-744 -- (Passed)--Transfer administration of the "Hazardous Substances Transportation Act" from Department of Revenue to Department of Transportation, making Secretary of Transportation a member of the Board instead of Secretaries of Health and Highways.
(Frame -- Yes);

S-746 -- (Passed) -- Permit third class city Controller's reports to be filed with Prothonotary rather than Clerk of Courts if provided by local court rules.
(Frame -- Yes);

S-747 -- (Passed) -- Permit second class township Auditor's reports to be filed with Prothonotary rather than Clerk of Courts if provided by local court rules.
(Frame -- Yes);

S-836 -- (Passed) -- Permit Superintendent of Public Instruction to make exceptions to the school schedule by approving a 27 1/2 hour week as equivalent to five days and approve a school year of 900 hours of instruction.
(Frame -- Yes);

S-855 -- (Passed) -- Make a deficiency appropriation of $7 million to the Department of Public Welfare for assistance payments and the county administration of public assistance programs.
(Frame -- Yes);

H-46 -- (Passed) -- Amend the "Second Class Township Code" authorizing payment of expenses of the officers at conferences, reduce from 12 to 10 cents the rate entitled to per circular mile traveled.
(Frame -- Yes);

H-55--(Passed) -- Change the name of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes to Board of Assessment Appeals in fourth to eighth class counties.
(Frame -- Yes);

H-448 -- (Passed) -- Limit the amount of accumulated leave professional employees may transfer with them from one school district to another.
(Frame -- Yes);

H-485 -- (Passed) -- Permit county commissioners to prescribe the form of the seal used by the county.
(Frame -- Yes);

H-1063 -- (Passed) -- Increase the penalty for turning in a false fire alarm from a fine with no minimum and a maximum of $500 to a minimum fine of $200 and a maximum of $1000; providing that if death or injury or property damage result from a false fire alarm the convicted be subject to a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $2000, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years.

(Frame -- Yes);

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
H-191 -- (Passed) -- Repeal the act concerning powers and immunities of police and firemen transferred for duty to another city, borough, town or township.
(Yes -- Allen, Westerberg);

H-293 -- (Passed) -- Amend the "Local Tax Enabling Act" concerning the collection of earned income taxes at their source eliminating the provision which would have allowed employers to deduct 2 percent of the taxes withheld.
(Yes -- Allen, Westerberg);

H-367-- (Passed) -- Amend the "Eminent Domain Code" to require the use of registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, instead of ordinary mail when a condemnor sends copy of petition for appointment of viewers to the adverse party, when viewers send notice of their appointment to parties involved in condemnation, and when notice of hearing is given.
(Yes -- Allen, Westerberg);

H-385 -- (Passed) -- Increase penalty from $100 a month to $100 a day for failure to comply with law providing for fishways over dams in inland waters and giving the Pennsylvania Fish Commission jurisdiction over operation of such fishways.
(Yes -- Allen, Westerberg);

H-469 -- (Defeated) -- Authorize acquisition of property necessary for certain present or future highway purposes designating certain functions as highways purposes and regulating procedure for such acquisitions.
(No -- Allen, Westerberg);

H-749 -- (Passed) -- Amend the "Public School Code" by including child nutrition program specialists within the term "professional employees" giving such specialists all the rights and duties of such employees.
(Yes -- Allen; No -- Westerberg);

H-984 -- (Passed) -- Provide for the reimbursement of costs to persons displaced as a result of acquisition of property by the Department of Highways.
(Yes -- Allen, Westerberg);

To Be Renamed Webbs Ferry Fishburn Recreation Site

Chase Putnam, president of the Warren County Historical Society and Ralph Freeman, supervisor of the Allegheny National Forest, jointly announced today the changing of the name of one of the planned recreation areas on the Allegheny Reservoir. The boat launching complex now under construction on the Pennsylvania-New York border known as Fishburn Run will now be officially designated by the Forest Service as Webbs Ferry.

Freeman explained that the original name Fishburn Run came from a nearby stream that runs north into State Line Bay. It was brought to the attention of the Forest Service by Don Neal, local outdoor writer, that this name was in error. As a result, representatives of the Forest Service worked closely with the Warren County Historical Society and local historians tracing the early history of the area in question. It was discovered that the name Fishburn Run should have been Kilburn Run. The mistake was made many years ago when the state surveyed and printed the topographic map of the area.

The name Webbs Ferry is authentic. An early trading post and ferry dating back to the early 1800's was once located at the site of the planned boat launch complex. The site was owned by or associated with the Webb Family for nearly 100 years.

The Forest Service believes that designating this site as Webbs Ferry will perpetuate the historical significance of this unique area.

HAVE A SUMMERTIME HAWAIIA SANDWICH AND ALOHA COOLER

DIAMOND HEAD SANDWICH

2 cups cooked shrimp	Butter, softened
1 tablespoon lemon juice	2 cans (4 1/2-oz. ea., deviled ham)
1/2 cup chopped celery	8 slices pineapple, well drained
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped	and cut in half
1 tablespoon chopped parsley	12 slices tomato
1 teaspoon finely chopped onion	1 cup (4-oz.) shredded
1/2 cup dairy sour cream	Cheddar cheese
1/2 loaf Vienna bread	Chopped parsley

In a bowl toss shrimp with lemon juice; mix in celery, eggs, parsley and onion. Gently blend in sour cream. Set aside. Cut bread in half lengthwise. Place on broiler pan. Spread each half with butter; toast under broiler. Partially cut through bread to make 3 servings per half. Spread each half with deviled ham. Arrange pineapple slices on ham; top with slices of tomato. Spoon shrimp mixture over tomatoes; sprinkle with cheese. Broil until cheese melts and is lightly browned. Carefully slice into portions and serve garnished with parsley. 6 servings.

STRAWBERRY PINEAPPLE FLOAT

1/2 cup chopped strawberries	1 1/2 cups milk
2 scoops pineapple sherbet	Scoops of pineapple sherbet
1 teaspoon sugar	(optional)
Dash of salt

Using mixer or blender combine strawberries, sherbet, sugar and salt, beating until smooth. Gradually add milk and beat at low speed until blended. Top each serving with a small scoop of pineapple sherbet. Yield: Approx. 2 1/2 cups.

ALOHA COFFEE ISLAND COOLER

1 cup half and half or light cream	1/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup whipping cream	3 tablespoons instant coffee powder
2 tablespoons confectioners sugar	2 cups hot water
1/4 teaspoon vanilla	1 quart milk

Dissolve sugar and coffee in water. Stir in milk and half and half; chill. Whip cream; fold in confectioners sugar and vanilla. Pour coffee mixture over ice cubes in tall glass. Garnish with sweetened whipped cream. Yield: 8-10 servings.

PINEAPPLE STRAWBERRY COOLER

2 cups milk	1/2 pint vanilla ice cream
2 1/2 cups (1-lb. 4 1/2-oz. can)	1 pint strawberry ice cream
chilled crushed pineapple	Mint, optional

In a mixer or blender combine milk, crushed pineapple and vanilla ice cream until just blended. Pour into tall glasses and top with a scoop of strawberry ice cream. Garnish with mint, if desired. Yield: Approximately 6 servings.
